League Seeks to Put New Deal "On Spot" In Pre-Congress Rally

WASHINGTON—A plan to put the New Deal on the spot with a sensational publicity coup is being hatched secretly by master minds of the Liberty League.

The plan is to hold a national "non-partisan" rally in Chicago about December 15—just before Congress convenes. Alfred E. Smith and Senator William E. Borah are the proposed Big Berthas of the occasion.

With these two stellar performers commanding the headlines, the League would be able to get over a flood of covertly anti-administration propaganda—demands for the end of further New Deal experiments, inflation, big government spending.

Preparations for the proposed event are being pushed under the closest guarded secrecy.

This is done for two reasons. First, to obtain all the advantages that may be derived from springing it as a surprise. Second, to keep the date of the meeting open until the last possible moment so that it can be held after the President makes his already announced "fireside" radio talk.

Guarded overtures already have been made to Borah and Smith proposing their participation.

New Deal Forums

Meanwhile, the Administration, without any knowledge of the Liberty League's maneuvers, is planning a forum of its own.

Its purpose, however, is entirely different. Behind the plan is the aim of the President and of John W. Studebaker, new Commissioner of Education, to promote adult education.

To this end they expect to establish a series of "Town Halls" or open forums throughout the country. The first of these probably will be in Washington, and one of the New Deal's chief critics and a rival candidate against Franklin Roosevelt—Norman Thomas—will be invited to speak.

The President personally is most enthusiastic over the idea.

Bonus Evasion

Frank N. Belgrano, new National Commander of the American Legion, hotly denies reports that he was personnally not in agreement with the Miami convention vote for immediate payment of the bonus.

Most significant, however, was his first public address after election. In it he declared that "Americanism" was the first objective of the Legion and carefully skirted the bonus issue.

Soul Cultivation

Cultivation of the artistic talents of the unemployed is being seriously undertaken by the FERA.

Because it is readily vulnerable to ridicule, this phase of relief activity has been little publicized; but it is doing a flourishing business.

The work is an extension of the CWA experiment in art relief last winter, and is being done by jobless painters, writers, actors ,musicians, whose talents cannot profitably be employed in building roads, making mattresses, or digging sewers.

Some of the recent cultural activities of these groups are: a troop of actors touring CCC camps with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and other plays; a painter doing murals on the walls of a state prison dining hall in New York; an orchestra playing for hospital patients in California; a sculptor doing mosaics in a public park in Texas; an architect making models of a museum in Colorado.

The big problem of FERA authorities is to determine what is art and what is not, and to keep "phonies" from worming their way into the "artistic" ranks.

'DICK' DENMAN HURT AFTER POLICE CHASE

Damages Crites Station in North End Before Wild Drive Through City

AUTO IS DESTROYED

Pulled From Burning Car By City Police

Harry 'Dick' Denman, Jr., 30, was taken home from Berger hospital today suffering painful but not serious injuries and probably trying to recall events which led to his confinement in the hospital.

Denman, allegedly intoxicated, led police officers a 'merry' but highly dangerous chase through principal streets of the city early Wednesday evening culminating in a collision with a truck on E. Mound-st at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing. Denman's Pontiac coupe turned over several times and burst into flames with Officers Raymond Smith and Alva Shasteen pulling him from the car a moment before it was enveloped in flames. Had they been a minute later Denman would probably have perished in the car.

PENNIES FOUND

Several hundred persons rushed to the scene of the crash Wednesday evening and a scramble resulted when a number of pennies, probably from Denman's automobile, were found on the ground.

INJURED INTERNALLY

He was taken to the hospital in the Albaugh ambulance and was placed in the care of Dr. E. R. Austin who reported Thursday that his condition was not serious although he has internal injuries including possible fractured ribs, cuts on his face and head and a badly lacerated finger.

Police received a call from the new north end Crites filling station to hurry there at once. Without waiting to learn details Officers Smith and Shasteen darted up N. Court-st. As they drove into the driveway of the station, a man, unknown to them, drove out at high speed narrowly missing their automobile.

Smith, at the wheel, turned around and started to follow the fugitive. Down Court-st to Pinckney, on Pinckney to Scioto-st, they sped, at times touching 70 on their speedometers. The fugitive turned south on Scioto-st, and running red lights and endangering pedestrians and other motorists, he kept ahead of the police car. His car nearly turned over when it hurled across the N. & W. railroad tracks. He turned on Harrison-st and went back up Court to Mound. The two machines close together, maintained their great speed clear to the end of Mound-st where Denman's machine hit the truck of L. F. Galbraith, of near Laurelville. Galbraith was later arrested by police for intoxication.

SHOT AT FUGITIVE

During the chase Officer Shasteen shot at the fleeing automobile trying to break a tire but was not successful. During the entire chase neither officer knew who was in the other car, they said.

Denman's car was demolished in the wreck and the fire. The truck was not badly damaged. The fire department spent considerable time at the scene.

Denman operates a service station north of this city and, apparently angered by competition provided by the Crites Oil Co. since it opened its new station opposite Forest cemetery, picked up an iron rod, Wednesday evening, and went to the Crites station. Kenneth Majors and Terry Hitchcock were in charge but they evaded him. He started striking the porcelain structure with the iron rod. Majors called the police.

Damage at the Crites station was estimated over $200.

Charges of driving while intoxicated, and operating a motor vehicle without due respect for pedestrians were filed against him today by Officer Shasteen.

Galbraith, the truck driver, was fined $100 and costs and committed to the county jail charged with driving while intoxicated. His driving rights were suspended for six months by Mayor W. B. Cady.

ALARM "HAYWIRE"

The fire alarm system went "haywire" this morning thus the queer ringing about 7:30 a. m.

HUGE CROWD VISITS 2ND NATIONAL BANK

More than 650 persons visited the beautifully remodeled Second National bank, Wednesday evening, to take part in the formal opening since remodeling.

Oscar Howard, president of the institution, was greatly pleased with the response shown the invitation to visit the banking firm which now takes its place beside the best institutions in central Ohio.

Many visitors were surprised by the great change.

6-MONTHS SALES TAX SEEN

GREEN URGES INCOME TAXES

Delegates To Farm Convention Hear Plea as Solution of Tax Question.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, today told more than 2,000 delegates to the organization's 16th annual convention here that the passage of a net earned income tax law is the first step in the solution of Ohio's tax problem.

A retail sales tax, Green asserted, should be resorted to "only as an emergency measure."

Green spoke at the opening session of the federation's two-day convention here.

"You will be told," Green said in addressing the convention today, "that a net earned income tax law will not produce sufficient revenue to meet our needs. No doubt this statement is partially true, but further let it be known that if many exemptions which have usually been granted under income tax provisions were excluded, on an income basis, Ohio would amply meet its tax needs."

As to the sales tax, a program which is now being considered by the state legislature, Green had this to say:

"No form of a general retail sales tax can do other than to place again on a small income the major portion of our tax burden and a general retail sales tax is not a tax based on ability to pay, but one based on our necessity to purchase."

The exception to this, Green said, is the "specialized sales tax for which the farm bureau stands."

Green paid tribute to the "constructive force" of the nation's political leadership and announced that the farm bureau would continue to support the major objectives of the Agricultural Adjustment act.

Police Court

Leo Buzzard, of Oakland; Roy Huffman, of Tarlton, and Duke Watson, this city, were each fined $5 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady, Thursday morning, after their arrest for intoxication Wednesday evening.

Pearl Watson, 38, an inmate of the Columbus state hospital, was taken into custody at the home of his father, Half-ave, Wednesday night by Sheriff Radcliff and Deputy Custer. Watson had escaped the institution.

William Lintz, Scioto-twp, was in jail today after his arrest for stealing corn from Charles Ward, Scioto-twp. Deputy Custer arrested him.

Charles and James Kuhn, this city, were placed in jail by Constable Oscar Woeber on charges of stealing corn from a Jackson-twp farmer.

Arthur Heffner, Saltcreek-twp, was arrested by Deputy Armstrong for stealing corn from Lewis Crawford, Whisler.

PATIENT FLEES

Police were informed Wednesday evening that Charles Sayre, a patient at the veterans' hospital, Chillicothe, had escaped and was coming this way. No trace was found of him

Plan Gaining Support as Lewis, of Senate, Urges That Final Bill Be Left for Davey's Assembly; Exemptions Voted Down

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Shifting their attack momentarily from the sales tax to a proposal to re-enact the one-cent liquid fuel tax, critics of the White emergency tax program today suffered another defeat.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—An attempt to limit the duration of the proposed 3 per cent bracket sales tax to the first six months of 1935 was to be made today in the Ohio house of representatives by sales tax opponents.

As the bill now stands, the act would expire on Dec. 31, 1935, unless re-enacted by the 91st General Assembly which meets for the first time next January.

An amendment to restrict the sales tax to six months was being drawn up by Rep. W. P. Van Nees (R) Mechanicsburg, who has been promised support for it by such leading anti-sales tax members as Rep. P. E. Ward (R) Chardon, and Rep. E. R. Hummell (D) Carroll.

BACKED BY LEWIS

Such proposal has been advocated by Sen. Earl R. Lewis (R) St. Clairsville, minority floor leader in the senate. Lewis contends that the present session should do no more than handle the emergency situation, leaving a permanent program to be worked out by the administration of Gov.-elect Martin L. Davey.

Although it has survived several major hurdles, the sales tax bill was to meet an even greater hazard this afternoon when the special house taxation committee takes a vote on recommending passage of the entire emergency tax program of Gov. George White.

Discomposed by the success of the controversial tax measure in withstanding repeated assaults thus far, even the most confirmed opponents were beginning to believe the lower house eventually will pass the sales tax and the rest of the program.

The senate is waiting to learn what disposition is made of the program in the house before acting upon it. There is strong senate opposition to a sale stax, but on the basis of past performances, concurrence of the upper branch

LEGION'S MEMBER CONTEST PLANNED

Howard Hall post, American Legion, is laying plans for a membership drive with impetus being given the campaign at the annual rabbit supper Wednesday which more than 40 members attended.

Two teams have been named for the drive with William Betts, Jr., colonel of one team, aided by Lorin Dudleson and Ralph Ward as majors. Ed C. Ebert is colonel of the other with Orin Dreisbach and Fred Dauenhauer his majors.

Plans were also discussed for another dance at Memorial Hall with Lawrence Goeller as chairman of the committee. The date and the orchestra have not yet been determined.

The rabbit supper was complete with mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, celery, pickles, bread, butter and coffee being prepared by E. R. Coffland, Karl Miller and their helpers.

Named by Butler in Fascist Charge

Named by General Smedley D. Butler as the man who had assertedly asked him to lead a Fascist coup against Washington, Gerald P. MacGuire, left, connected with a New York brokerage firm, has denied the assertion. The former marine corps commander said MacGuire suggested that a private army of 500,000 ex-soldiers be organized and that $3,000,000 could be raised for the purpose. On right is MacGuire's attorney, Norman L. Marks, who termed the disclosure as a "joke and a publicity stunt for General Butler". The congressional committee investigating un-American subversive movements in New York is pushing an inquiry into the alleged plot.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is Near Breakdown After Ruling

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.— Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, verging on a nervous breakdown, learned today that her chances of regaining complete custody of her ten year old daughter, Gloria, are wellnigh hopeless.

The decree by which Supreme Court Justice Carew made the child heiress a ward of the state—like any child of the slums—is almost air-tight, the distraught widow of "Reggie" Vanderbilt was told.

In a preliminary study of the judge's ruling her attorneys have found but one possible loophole by which the decision that gives little Gloria to her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney for five days a week and to the mother only over the week-ends, can be upset.

That is to draft a plea to the appellate court for a mandamus to compel Justice Carew to redraft the decision he handed down yesterday to make it subject to appeal.

AVOIDS DECISION

In ruling in the sensational seven weeks' Vanderbilt-Whitney struggle for possession of the child the justice avoided a direct decision on Mrs. Vanderbilt's application for a writ of habeas corpus to force Mrs. Whitney to relinquish Gloria to her mother. His failure either to deny or grant the application automatically blocked an appeal to the higher court.

But counsel for the young widow are prepared to argue her constitutional rights to an appeal and to insist that Justice Carew be forced to revise his ruling.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, to whom the judge's decision seemed "unbelievable," made known today that she will not call at the Whitney home in Long Island this coming Saturday to bring Gloria to her home in Manhattan for the week-end. Nor will she until all attempts to upset Justice Carew's ruling have been exhausted. She fears that such an apparent surrender might prejudice her case.

MRS. HAYS FALLS, HURT

Right Ankle Broken, Shoulder Injured; Husband Recovering From Infection.

Mrs. Hulse Hays, N. Court-st, slipped and fell down the front steps of her home at 10 a. m. Thursday fracturing her right ankle and bruising her shoulder.

How she came to slip is not known.

She was taken to Berger hospital in the Albaugh Co., invalid car, and was placed under the care of Dr. D. V. Courtright who reported her resting well this afternoon.

Mr. Hays, postmaster, who was confined to his bed with an infected hand, is improving but has not yet left the home.

4 YOUTHS TO FACE CHARGES OF THEFT

Detective Rudder of the Columbus police department came here Thursday to take into custody four youths arrested by local officers Wednesday afternoon for bicycle theft.

The youths who are 15, 16 and 17 years of age will face charges of automobile theft. They had stolen a car which was found abandoned on the Scioto Trail near the Cecil Noecker farm.

MRS. McNEAL, 93, DIES

Funeral services will be held in Adelphi Friday at 2 p. m. for Mrs. Rebecca McNeal, 93, who died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. N. L. Strawser, Adelphi.

CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 22.— Troy and Norman Gibson, of Highland-co, who attempted to establish an alibi for James Craig on trial here for an armed robbery, were ordered held in the Ross-co jail by Prosecutor Lester Reid for perjury. Craig was found guilty after a jury deliberated only 10 minutes.

HEAT MARK SET; MERCURY TO FALL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.-With the warmest November 21 in history written into the weather records, rain and colder weather was predicted in Ohio today.

The temperatures soared to a high of 73 degrees here yesterday, breaking the all-time mark of 72 degrees set in 1906.

WARNER, BAER, M'MANAMY IN MAYOR'S PLAN

Council Votes Retirement Plan Effective as Soon as Possible

BOARDS NECESSARY

Source of Pension Funds Not Yet Certain

Retirement of three veterans of the police and fire departments appeared in the near future after council, under suspension of rules so financial matters could be included in their 1935 budget, passed a pension ordinance in its Wednesday evening session.

The veterans to be retired are Police Chief W. H. Warner, Officer Thomas McManamy and Fire Inspector John S. Baer, under the plan of Mayor W. B. Cady. Mayor Cady announced at council meeting that only one person, a new chief of police, will be named to replace all three. It is believed the duties of inspector of fire hazards will fall upon the shoulders of Chief Talmer Wise.

At present the combined salaries of the three men to be retired total $2,400, the police chief getting $1,200 and each of the others $600.

KEPT ON PAYROLL

Chief Warner has remained on active duty, while Officer McManamy early this year became a desk officer. Mr. Baer became fire inspector several years ago. Both positions, desk officer and fire inspector, were arranged by council so neither of the veterans would be "turned out in the cold" after many years of service. Under the pension plan they will be provided for.

Just how soon the retirement system can be put into effect depends upon several details. It is necessary to have a pension board appointed of members of the departments affected, members of council and an outside individual selected by the other members. W. F. Baker, president pro tem of council, appointed Ben H. Gordon and C. O. Leist as the council's members to help arrange the fire retirement system, and selected W. M. Reid and J. H. Helwagen for the police system. The firemen and police will each select two of their members and when the various groups meet the fifth person, the outsider, will be named.

SET AGE AT 65

The pension boards will determine the age for retirement, which Mayor Cady favors at 65, the retirement fund to be paid and other details.

The source of revenue for the retirement fund resulted in a misunderstanding in council. Solicitor Carl Leist said his understanding was that council could appropriate up to 3-10 of a mill from each dollar out of the general fund for the pension fund while Mayor Cady insisted the 3-10 mill should be above the lawful 10 mill limit. It will be necessary to decide this before much can be done. Leist quoted Tom Krinn as his authority while Cady said his information was from Judge Adkins.

There were no dissenting votes on either suspension of rules or passage of the ordinances.

It is now past time for the county budget commission to meet, Councilman Reid pointed out, but dates for hearings have not yet been set so the city will be able to include the retirement system in its 1935 budget plans. Had the ordinances for pensions been permitted to take their proper course of three readings they would have been voted upon too late for inclusion in the 1935 budget.

PEALER TO OUTLAW "NUMBERS" RACKET

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.— The "numbers" racket must go.

That was the decision today of Safety Director Winfield S. Pealer as Columbus police officials revealed plans for a determined drive against "stock market bookies" to rid the city of the racket "within 10 days."

The racket is operated on the basis of the daily stock sales totals from the New York Stock exchange and other markets. Anything from a penny on up can be bet, the bettor taking his choice of the number.

Hundreds of persons in Columbus make their living collecting daily bets. Major Pealer declared the racket had grown to such proportions that "it reaches into every office in Columbus and takes money from hundreds who are in serious need of the money."

IOWA ENDS OHIO YEAR

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—After an absence of several years the Iowa Cornhuskers will appear at Ohio stadium Saturday to help the Scarlet close its first season under the tutelage of Coach Francis A. Schmidt. Incidentally this will be the first appearance of the Hawkeyes under the coaching of Ossie Solem.

Iowa is expected to start the game on even terms with the Bucks. The Westerners have had two weeks in which to prepare for this struggle and have the benefit of Coach Solem's personal observations last Saturday at the Michigan-Ohio game. That the Iowa coach went back with a book full of notes and diagrams was evident by his heavy work in the press box.

ALL ARE READY

The Ohio squad, barring injuries in practice this week, should be in good condition for the game, despite the fact the players have traveled at top speed since September 15. All of the boys came out of the Michigan game in good shape, barring the usual bruises.

Any feeling of over-confidence on the part of the Ohioans was dispelled at the Monday evening practice when Coach Schmidt raked them over the coals in no uncertain manner for mistakes in the Michigan game. Close critics are of the opinion that under Schmidt's direction an Ohio team will never lose a game because of over-confidence.

The Iowa-Ohio rivalry started back in 1922 and then was discontinued in 1929. During that time Iowa won four, Ohio State three, and one game ended in a tie.

Ohio, unscored on in its last three games, probably will see its goal line crossed Saturday as Iowa boast two of the fastest and most elusive ball carriers in the conference in Dick Crayne and Ozzie Simmons, the Fort Worth, Tex., boy, whom Coach Schmidt saw play many times while the latter coached at Texas Christian.

Saturday's game will be the last for Ohio and is expected to boost the year's total attendance for games at home and abroad to near the 275,000 mark.

Starsfin Clash of Notre Dame and Army Elevens

Outstanding among Saturday's games in the east, and one of the most important in the country, is the clash of Army Cadets and the Notre Dame Irish at Yankee stadium, New York City. This layout shows some of the stars of the opposing teams.

TRADITION GOES ON UNDER BUCK COACH

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.— For years and years there has been a tradition at Ohio State university that on the last night of practice the graduating members of the football squad take their last tackle at the dummy.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt, ending his first year as coach here, plans to continue that tradition. After the final workout for the Iowa game Friday night, "Schmitty" will lead 9 members of his squad onto the practice field for their "last tackle." The members are:

Dave Jones, Jackson; Jack Smith, Hamilton; John McAfee, Ironton; Damon Wetzel, Columbus; Bud Cox, Springfield; James Scott, Toledo, George Neal, Dayton. Revis Monahan, Lorain, State's All-American guard candidate, and George Kabealo, Youngstown.

NEW LEAGUE TALKED

A reorganized athletic league with Lancaster, Coshocton, Zanesville and any three of Chillicothe, Athens, Bexley, Logan, Circleville or Washington C. H. is advocated by Carl Lehman in the Lancaster Daily Gazette—The league would no doubt be a peach but when the local school, Chillicothe and Washington C. H. started their more than 100 mile grind to Coshocton for a small guarantee it seems that discord in the loop would result—And another thing, we can't win in the Central Buckeye league so what chance would we have in a loop comprised of the above teams—No thank, you * * * It is certain, however, that Circleville sports fans would turn out better to see the teams in the proposed league play than they do to see the CBL outfits.

SOME FOR COLUMBUS

It's the season for trades, sales and give-aways in the big and small leagues, and the St. Louis Cardinals, Wednesday, gave away a mighty good pitcher in Tex Carleton for two hurlers who can only do their farms good, Tinning and Ward of the Chicago Cubs—One of the two will probably travel toward Columbus—It is with interest that we read where George Toporcer and Estell Crabtree may be Columbus bound—Crabbie, long a favorite in the Columbus park, would fit in the picture very nicely, but how Toporcher would rate is beyond us * * * That Lew Riggs won't be back is certain since the Cincinnati Reds have bought him—Wonder what the sale price was?

SCHMIDT NAMES TRIO

Coach Francis Schmidt, of Ohio State, has picked an all Big Ten team and has named Monahan, Gomer Jones and Heekin from his eleven on the first team—Hamrick and Wendt, tackle and end, are on the second outfit—The remainder of the first team included Larson of Minnesota and Ward of Michigan ends; Foster of Iowa and Galbreath of Illinois, tackles; Bevan, of Minnesota, at guard; Beynon of Illinois at quarterback, Lund of Minnesota at the other half and Purvis of Purdue at fullback.

GOPHER INTEREST IN ROSE BOWL TILT

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 22—Followers of Minnesota's unbeaten, untied powerhouse football team today expressed more interest in possible participation in the Rose Bowl contest New Year's day than the proposed conference "play-off" with Ohio State.

But as yet no communications have been received by the University of Minnesota concerning the proposed Ohio State-Minnesota game, according to Athletic Director Frank McCormick. McCormick said:

"I will reserve comment until an official communication concerning the game is received."

For either post-season game it would be necessary to have the consent of the Western conference faculty committee, which has ruled against such contests.

Litus D. Coffman, president of the university, is in New York for a meeting of the board of trustees of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching.

LUTHERAN LADIES' SOCIETY MEETS

Fifty four members assembled for the November meeting of the Ladies' society of Trinity Lutheran church, Wednesday afternoon, in the Parish house.

Dr. G. J. Troutman, president, opened the meeting with song, scripture reading and prayer. Mrs. Cyril Palm gave a reading, "Unknown to the Covetous," and Miss Anna Schleyer played a piano solo.

Dr. Troutman then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Charles Diehlman, a member of the thankoffering committee. Mrs. Diehlman gave a reading, "The Thankoffering Department" and Marion Sensenbrenner entertained with two vocal numbers, "Others," and "The Old Rugged Cross."

Thankoffering boxes were then returned. It is desired that all members not attending yesterday's meeting return their thankoffering boxes to the church Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Bower, delegate to the convention of the Women's Missionary Federation of the American Lutheran church held recently at Oshkosh, Wis., gave a report. Two vocal solos, "There's an Old Water Mill by a Water Fall" and "Why Don't You Practice What You Preach," were given by Carolyn Herrmann, who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Karl Herrmann.

At the conclusion of the program lunch was served by the November committee including Mrs. W. F. Heffner, chairman, Mrs. Ed Mason, Mrs. Harry Dresbach, Mrs. J. Wallace Crist, Mrs. Clarence Wolf, Mrs. Harry Lane, Mrs. John Dresbach, Mrs. William Gearhart and Mrs. Christian Reichelderfer.

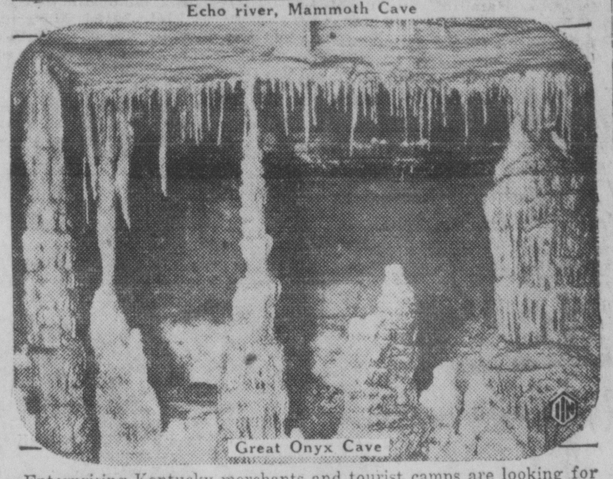
U. S. Takes Over Caves for Park

Echo river, Mammoth Cave



Great Onyx Cave

Enterprising Kentucky merchants and tourist camps are looking for better days as a result of the final dedication of Mammoth Cave National park, hoping that Uncle Sam's action will increase the swarm of sightseers at the natural spectacle. For years American and foreign visitors have followed flickering lamp flames through the miles of sunless pathways, past gigantic limestone stalactites and fissures. More than 200 miles of Mammoth Cave have been explored, and guides say there are hundreds of other untouched corners. The national park, which includes scores of lesser known caves, will contain more than 45,000 acres when the last strip of parkland is taken over.

Henry Wins Turkey On Business Figure

The Harry A. Chipman Agency celebrated its 11th anniversary at the Granville Inn last Wednesday where 158 agents and their wives were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chipman. Prominent speakers from the New York office delivered instructive and inspiring addresses during the day. The big turkey dinner at the noon hour was bounteous and this anniversary was heralded by all as the greatest meeting in the history of the agency.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, local representatives for the Equitable Life of U. S., qualified by their production during the October campaign for this big event. Total volume in the Chipman Agency was $2,400,000, and the total volume for the Lehman district was over $800,000 for the month. Over 60 per cent of this volume, according to E. E. Lehman, district manager, was written in the form of annuities, a very popular form of investment.

Four of the 35 agents in the Lehman district won special recognition and were awarded live turkeys for writing 11 or more applications during the campaign. Karl W. Anderson, Newark; Mrs. Tressie Davenport, Black Lick; J. W. Henry, Circleville; Miles Levering, London.

No Neglect of Veterans

THE vociferous Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, one of the loudest advocates of the immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, has been defeated for reelection and in his place Sherman Minton, who soldiered in France, has been elected.

Mr. Minton takes the position that veterans have no special claim for favors from the government solely because they are veterans. "Payment of compensation to able-bodied veterans of the World war would be robbing disabled veterans and widows and orphans of men who sacrificed their lives," Mr. Minton maintains. "I haven't any right to live off this country because I served it in war."

The roll call will reveal just how many Mintons there are in congress and how many there are who, ignoring the best interests of the country at large, conform to the will of the formidable veterans' lobby.

To these members of congress, to the veterans themselves and to the general public, figures given out by Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans' bureau, will prove enlightening.

Germany's toll in the World war was 6,111,862 dead and wounded, and the cost to the government for each soldier is $48.87. France's toll was 5,625,000 and the cost is $50.29 a man England's was 3,000,000, with a cost of $58.28 a man. The United States had 322,497 dead and wounded, and today is paying out $2,668.55 a year for each soldier.

In view of the record, who can say that the United States has been lacking in gratitude to the men who served the country in a great emergency or has failed to make adequate provision for those who suffered from war's devastations?

An Enemy Conquered

A 70-year-old physician, Dr. William W. Park, director of the research laboratories of the New York City health department, has just made an announcement of a discovery which will take its place among the notable achievements of medical science and produce incalculable benefits to humanity.

A few months ago, Dr. Park and his associate, Dr. Maurice Brody, of New York, University made known that they had succeeded in immunizing monkeys against infantile paralysis and that the effectiveness of the vaccine developed would be tested upon themselves and also upon children.

These tests have since been finished, with completely satisfactory results, and plans are now being made by Dr. Park to administer the serum to children as fast as it can be produced. The serum developed is taken from the spine of a monkey after he has been inoculated with the virus. In order to lower the cost of the inoculation, now one dollar, a method is being considered whereby monkeys would be inoculated with the poliomyelitis virus in India, killed there and their spinal cords shipped to this country for the preparation of the vaccine.

The ravages of infantile paralysis in the past, producing death and maimed bodies are distressing to think upon and the dangers of the disease are a source of almost constant fear in the minds of parents. Accordingly, the knowledge that this menace to children and adults has been eliminated through the advancement of medical science constitutes genuine cause for rejoicing.

CAROLINE // by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS

Caroline Rutledge and Howard Dunsworth become engaged despite the opposition of their fathers, Philip Rutledge and Henry Dunsworth, who have been enemies for years. Then Henry ruins Philip in business and Caroline breaks her engagement when it is obvious that money means more to Howard than love. He explained he would be disinherited if they married and now that Caroline had no money, he did not see how they could manage. The Rutledges leave "Hawthorn," their luxurious home, and go to live in a poor section of town. Alva, Caroline's mother, collapses from shock and fatigue. Their neighbors, Malcolm Stuart and his mother, come to the family's assistance. Malcolm is an inspector at the Rutledge factory. Though Philip, himself, is helpless in their adversity and leaves the burden on Caroline's shoulders, he snobbishly resents the idea of accepting aid from "these people" as he terms the Stuarts. One day, Philip warns Caroline: "You must be careful of that Stuart boy, my dear. It's quite possible that he would be presumptuous enough to fall in love with you." Malcolm overhears the remark. Caroline tells Malcolm not to mind her father for he never thought any boy was the right one for her, adding: "I shouldn't want you to fall in love with me because I couldn't return it. Their eyes meet. Caroline's pity for Malcolm prevented her from realizing how perfect had been the fusion of their minds in that one glance. Never had there been between her and Howard one moment so electric and breathless as this. Next day, Malcolm avoids Caroline. She returns to "Hawthorn" to retrieve two pictures which she does not wish included in the auction sale of their furniture. Gwendolyn Hoffman, a social climber, who had always been envious of Caroline, wants the pictures. While Gwendolyn is arguing with the auctioneer, a group of Caroline's friends spirit the pictures out of the house. Later, Caroline and her friends climb into Caroline's dilapidated car and go to the country club which Mr. Rutledge so generously helped support in his heyday. It lifted Caroline's spirits to be with her friends, but the lark soon turned into a cruel piece of realism.

CHAPTER XV

They decided first of all to have something to drink. Caroline marshaled them gaily up to the club house and a corner of the long piazza where tables and chairs were clustered. They arranged themselves in comfort and ordered what they wanted. When the bill was presented the two young men wanted to toss a coin to see which of them should settle it.

Caroline heard their suggestion with mingled feelings. Nice of them—she understood—but there was a wound in it. They had come as her guest; that, she had thought, was taken for granted. She reached out for the bill, took it up. "Allow me one last grand gesture, please," she laughed.

Something in her voice silenced them. She signed the paper and handed it to the waiter. He left with it, but a few moments later, as they were preparing to leave the piazza, he reappeared with a message for Caroline from the steward.

"Would she be good enough to see him in his office?"

Although the younger set had sometimes been complained of by the older members of the club Caroline had been well liked by the steward and his staff, and there wasn't a caddy on the place who wouldn't have missed a championship game to carry her clubs.

The steward's voice was filled with regret as he handed her back the slip of paper she had signed and told her that her father had resigned his membership.

"We shall be happy to have you and your friends consider yourselves guests of the club on this occasion," he added courteously.

Caroline thanked him but said she'd prefer to send the money. She didn't dare offer to pay the bill then and there. She didn't know exactly how much money she had in her bag—whether or not it would be sufficient. It would be too embarrassing to find it wasn't.

She went back to her friends and made the best of a bad half hour—she knew she was going to miss the club—and at the end of it her friends informed her they'd have to drag themselves back to the university.

Caroline remembered, with a jolt, that she had promised to pick up her father at four o'clock. "What time is it?" she asked in sudden fear that the hour was past.

"It's three forty-five and I swore to find out something about biology before three thirty!" one of the girls exclaimed. "Let's go!"

"You'll have to take us back to your house, Caroline," another said unthinkingly. "We left our bus there."

Hawthorn House was on the road from the club to the hotel in town where Caroline was to meet her father. She didn't want to be late and put him in an ill humor. And she knew now why he had chosen the hotel instead of one of his clubs. He'd resigned from every last one of them, probably. Poor old darling.

The waiter returned with a message from the steward for Caroline asking her if she would be good enough to see him in his office.

She drove with a speed that satisfied even her passengers. The town was accustomed to seeing cars filled with undergraduates in a hurry and let them have traffic much their own way.

It was only ten minutes past four when Caroline drew up before the appointed place. The doorman looked with indifference at the car but when he came over to it and recognized Caroline—the smartest of the large social affairs and the most exclusive assemblies were held there and Caroline had attended most of them during the past two years—he touched his cap and greeted her pleasantly. He even went inside, himself, to tell her father she was waiting.

When Philip Rutledge came out Caroline saw that he was flushed and unsteady. She did not question him during the drive to South Town about his day, but he volunteered the information that it had brought him only further discouragement. With a tightening in her throat Caroline realized that he had been drinking rather heavily.

Bitterness and pity fought for control of her feelings toward him. Then it came to her that after all, while she had not been tempted to dissipation she had done little more than her father to brighten the prospects for their future. And shouldn't she do something? Wasn't it already apparent that her mother was an exquisite parasite? Her father a weakling without his inherited power of bank balance and job dispenser? Harsh judgment, she admitted with an ache in her heart, but wasn't it true? Drink—now! When he needed to keep his faculties clear and his nerves steady. Didn't it mean that he had turned to this relief because of some lack of stability in his character? If his way was to drown his troubles . . .

Caroline possessed an intelligent clarity of vision where those she loved were concerned, once her faith had been jarred, which made her father's attitude clear to her. But strangely, the more strongly she censured them the more compassionate her love became.

It troubled her greatly to think of having her mother see her father in his present condition—Alva was so utterly dependent upon him—if she did not worry for him she must be frightened by her own outlook. Her mother might know, as crushingly as she, that Philip Rutledge had accepted defeat to a degree that would make the recouping of his fortunes highly improbable.

When they reached the house she said firmly: "This is not fair to Mother. I think you'd best go up to your room and not let her see you."

Her father agreed, without protest. "I'm going to change to a dinner jacket," he explained. "You're fond of your mother," he added after a moment of hesitation. "Be a good girl and tuck her in bed when she's had dinner and then get dressed. I want you to go with me—to a little party—some friends of mine—people you don't know." His voice faded, showing he was ill at ease.

They were walking up from the garage. Caroline halted in the path and stared at him. He saw that she was going to refuse.

"I particularly want you to do this, Caroline," he said hastily, "because it's important. It means a great deal to me. A chance to talk to a man I want to interest in a business proposition."

Caroline consented to do as her father asked, but she dreaded meeting strangers, with the need for a pretense of gaiety constantly oppressing her.

It was decided that Mrs. Wade should be asked to stay with her mother, and Caroline half hoped the woman would be unable to remain after her evening's work was done. But Mrs. Wade agreed, and Caroline told herself she was a poor sort of creature to think of failing her father, after judging him so severely.

It was only that. . . . She tried to close her mind to the thought that he was taking a questionable course in dragging her into his affairs with strangers. But she couldn't help wondering why she was wanted. Were they climbers, these people, grabbing at their first chance to have a name of social importance on their list of guests? A published list, perhaps.

Well, if that was all the Rutledges had to sell, what did it matter? Untill she had found some other way to help. . . . It couldn't be utterly a thing beneath them . . . her father, Philip Rutledge, would never stoop. . . . But there was that slightly shamefaced air about him. Its significance stuck in her mind, filling it with apprehension.

These Gloves are Inexpensive to Make

PATTERN 5209

This season hands were meant to be seen—our gloves have all gone gay in the most dashing way. And when they are most chic, they are crocheted! This pair is a pleasure to the crocheter, for it's comfortably warm. It's a delight to the beholder, for it's lovely in its dainty popcorn cuff. This cuff can match the glove—be done in the color of the glove together with another one—or contrast gayly with it.

In pattern 5209 you will find complete instructions for making the glove in three sizes (all given in the one pattern); illustration of the glove and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, O.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Terror reigned in the realm of romance! Strong men clashed over love—while Fate decided the victor! Stirring, dramatic incidents and tender romance mingled in an exciting thriller of the police ambulance service!

These are the highlights of Columbia's "Against the Law," starring Johnny Mack Brown, which comes Friday and Saturday to the Cliftona theatre. Brown portrays the role of a daring ambulance driver who is involved with George Meeker, his interne-friend, and Sally Blane, the girl they both love, in a gangster feud.

Thrills pile on thrills as the powerful criminal machine closes in about them, driving the young doctor to suicide, and threatening the love of the other two. The surprise climax is filled with hair-raising suspense and tense drama. Lambert Hillyer directed.

"Pro-football" A featurette starring Red Grange and the Chicago Bears in thrilling action sequences of the gridiron is a special added attraction.

AT THE GRAND

The crowd which witnessed the showing of "Return of Terror" at the Grand Theatre Wednesday evening was thrilled by the picture. It is a mystery of the itey b-c htlirpih highest degree, and interesting from start to finish.

DEERCREEK-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

BASKETBALL

Our basketball season opens Friday evening, Nov. 23 when our teams meet the Washington Twp. teams here. Practice has been in progress for several weeks. Both teams have been working hard, and from present appearances should enjoy a successful season. The lineup for the first game is not yet certain but probably on the boys team we shall find Egbert Hanson or Harold Gibson at center, Charles Ebenhack and Ted Corcoran at guards with Gibson alternating between the guard and center positions. Lloyd Wardell and Eugene Anderson will probably start at forwards, strong contenders for the forward positions include Kervyn Morrison, Ehmil Stonerock, George Smith and Harmon Carter each of whom will probably break into the lineup in the first few games. A goodly number of reserves compose a second team, several of whom are expected to be strong contenders for first team positions.

On the girls team, Virginia Betts, Francis Malone, Helen Hill, Mary Hastings, Helen Easter and Ruth Cook will probably start the game, Wanda Jones, Hazel Hastings, and Louise Lozier are strong contenders for first string positions.

The first game will start at 7:30 admission for all school children will be 10c. All others 25c. Come and help get the team off to a flying start.

Our complete schedule is as follows:

Nov. 23, Washington Twp. here.
Dec. 7, Circleville, there.
Dec. 14, Jackson here.
Dec. 21, Perry there.
Jan. 11, Darby here.
Jan. 17, Scioto, there.
Jan. 25, Kingston there.
Feb. 1, Muhlenberg here.
Feb. 7, Walnut there.
Feb. 15, Open.
Feb. 22, Tournament begins.

Due to the increasing traffice on U. S. Route 22 a dangerous condition exists at the intersection where children living in town cross the main road. In an effort to prevent accidents we are organizing a boys patrol, upon the suggestion of a representative from the Governor's Safety Service Commission. Three high school boys will be stationed at the intersection, during times of the day when children are crossing. It will be their duty to stop children from crossing in front of approaching automobiles, and to hold stop signs to the road to halt traffic until the children are safely across. Any motorist failing to heed the stop sign is reported to the State Highway Patrol, and is subject to arrest. The necessary equipment to outfit the boys has been supplied by the Circleville Kiwanis club. Within the next few days representatives from the Safety Commission, the State Highway Patrol and the County Sheriff's Office will complete the organization of the patrol and instruct the boys how to conduct the work.

Volunteer patrolmen are: Bill Johnson, Edin Frazier, Lyman Jones, Delos Morris, Wendell Jones and Kervyn Morrison.

We are also investigating the possibility of having a stop light erected at this intersection to be used only during school hours.

On Monday, Nov. 19, the seventh and eighth grades presented, as their unit of study for the second six weeks period, the following program:

1. "The Kangaroo and Cockatoo"—Chorus.
2. "Dancing Song"—Hungarian Girls Octette.
3. Trombone Solo — Charles Dreisbach.
4. "The Dumb Wife"—English Folk Song—Mixed Octette.
5. Piano Solo—"Second Valse" —Virginia Hunsicker.
6. Original Dance—"In Old Japan"—Sarah Godden.
7. "Oh Susanna"—Foster—Boys Octette.
8. Piano Solo—Rodino—Dorothy Caudy.
9. Junior Orchestra—Elementary March—Soft Music is Stealing.
10. "Hunting Song"—Chorus.

On Tuesday of last week 44 pupils from our school attended the Cleveland Symphony Concert at memorial Hall in Columbus. The trip was made in Galen Carters school bus. Miss Betts accompanied the group.

Helen Hill, Frances Malone, Harmon Carter, Everett Tomlinson, Billy Johnson and Miss Timmons went to Columbus Saturday to hear Don Cossack at Capital University Conservatory of Music.

PATTERNS 9200 AND 9021

Today we bring you two chic versions of what skirts should be. Pattern 9200 wraps around to a trim side closing, uses a neatly stitched pleat in back to give the double wrap-around effect and adds a cunningly tabbed, patch pocket in front to achieve a 'this season" air. This design would be just right for business or sports wear. Pattern 9021 is a skirt the larger woman might well choose. Its slenderizing front panel tapers flatteringly to the top and at the knee breaks into smart kick pleats for comfort in walking. A rough nubby wool would be nice for the upper skirt—broadcloth or wool-crepe for the lower.

Pattern 9200 may be ordered in waist sizes 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 28 requires 2⅛ yards 54 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Pattern 9021 may be ordered in waist sizes 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 28 requires 2⅛ yards 54 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. THIRTY CENTS (30c) for both. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Do not miss our WINTER PATTERN BOOK of smart, easy-to-make clothes designed by our style authority, MARIAN MARTIN. Styles for every age and all occasions. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Herald Pattern Department, 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, O.

endorsing the New Deal. Some of its leaders actually are scratching around looking for advisors who can interpret Roosevelt policies for them and secure for them the greatest degree of cooperation from the Administration.

This apparently is the aim of the mighty House of Morgan.

Only a few days after the November 6 elections had given Roosevelt the greatest confidence vote in history, Russell Leffingwell, Morgan partner, was busy looking for new advisors to act between the bankers and the Administration.

His attitude was twofold:

1. That the New Deal now looked with more favor upon the bankers; hence the bankers should respond by better cooperation.

2. That the New Deal had the overwhelming support of the country and therefore it was more expedient for the bankers to cooperate.

DAVEY ANNOUNCES ANOTHER DIRECTOR

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—Making his third major cabinet selection, Governor-elect Martin L. Davey today announced appointment of Ora B. Chapman, of Dayton, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor as Ohio director of industrial relations.

Chapman already has accepted the post Davey said. He will succeed Thomas J. Edmondson.

Chapman has been a prominent labor leader in Dayton for many years.

2 DIE TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—Death row at Ohio penitentiary added one today and is to take two away tonight.

E. E. Martin, 38, of Warren, was lodged in a death-row cell this morning to await his execution, scheduled for next April 26, as a result of his conviction for the murder of Charles Campbell, 42, of Tucson, Ariz., last August.

Tonight, two other occupants of death row will go to their doom. They are Herbert Thacker and Ray Freeman, both of Jackson-co. They are scheduled to die at 7:30 p. m. in the electric chair for the murder of Stephen Huntley, 73-year-old Jackson-co recluse, during a $22 robbery.

MURDER ADMITTED

Millville, N. J., Nov. 22.—George Pettit, Jr., 31-year-old chauffeur, has confessed to the brutal murder of his employer, Mrs. Mathilde McGee, 50, the "woman in black", whose body was discovered Monday at Laurel lake, police here announced today.

Police Lieutenant Richard Haines told International News Service that Pettit, after being questioned several hours, admitted having clubbed Mrs. McGee into insensibility with an automobile crank handle and having slashed her throat with a penknife.

6-MONTHS SALES TAX

was anticipated if the house sends over the program.

SCHOOLS VICTORS

Public school interests won an important victory when the house tax committee threw out the plan of allocating sales tax receipts suggested by the governor, substituting a system guaranteeing schools about $25,000,000, or $20 per pupil in 1935.

As the bill now stands in the house, tax experts count on its producing $60,000,000 if it is in effect a full year. The first 10 million would be allocated to old age pensions, the next six million for the retirement of 1935 poor relief bonds, and the next five million for replacing repealed "nuisance" taxes.

Sixty per cent of the remaining 39 millions from a sales tax added to the million and a half a state incomes tax is expected to yield, and the three million anticipated from a one per cent increase in utilities excise tax, would be sent to a state public school fund.

Receipts of this fund the tax experts believe will amount to about $25,000,000 annually. It would be distributed to all school districts on an average daily attendance basis.

What is left after the schools gets their share would be allocated back to the counties, half on a population basis and half on a tax duplicate basis, to be distributed by the budget commission to political subdivisions.

Such allocation plan pleased neither the school people nor the spokesmen for local governments. The latter fought it vigorously as a discriminatory measure, but the school leaders who while not satisfied with it considered they could do no better now, had the strength to put the plan into the bill.

MILK NOT EXEMPTED

Milk dealers bombarded the legislature to exempt their product from the sales tax, but succeeded only to the extent of having the vote reconsidered by which the house committee first refused to exclude milk. Voting a second time on the milk exemption proposal, the house once more turned it down.

"It seems to me that if you are going to tax a bottle of milk and a loaf of bread, dealers in stocks, bonds and mortgages should not escape similar taxation," said Rep. George Harter (D) Akron.

He offered an amendment to apply the tax to intangible property exempting only bank deposits and accounts receivable, but the house voted it down. A few moments later it voted down Harter's motion to kill the entire sales tax bill.

The farmers, who had been doing well up to this point, lost ground when the committee accepted an amendment authored by Rep. Theodore Kemp (D) Newark, to apply the sales tax to all farm products when sold outside the farm itself.

Effect of this clause would be to require a farmer selling his produce on the market in a city, to charge the same tax as nearby retail store competitors would have to collect on similar articles.

Since no wholesale transaction is taxable, the farmer would collect no tax on products he sold to commission houses or retail stores for resale to the ultimate consumer. In any case, only sales to the ultimate consumer come under the sales tax.

CHAIN TAX BEATEN

Rep. Al Kalb (D) Port Clinton, endeavored to incorporate a chain store tax into the sales tax bill by charging chain stores much higher rates under the licensing provision, but the Democratic floor leader engineered defeat of the proposal. The bill provides for payment of a $1 fee by each store licensed to collect the sales tax. The license is perpetual unless revoked.

All theater admissions of 10 cents and less would have been exempt under an amendment Rep. R. E. Heilker (R) Cincinnati, presented, but which the house defeated.

After accepting or voting down all amendments to the sales tax offered thus far, the committee turned its attention to the 1-cent liquid fuel tax, re-enactment of which is a part of the administration program. It produces about ten million dollars anually for the schools.

Rep. Van Ness and others objected to the liquid fuel tax on the grounds that it countenanced a diversion of funds to public schools which properly could only go to the building of roads. In answering them, Rep. R.A. Pollock (R) Canton author of the bill pointed to the defeat of the constitutional amendment proposing to prohibit gas tax diversion from highway purposes.

No attempt was made to vote either the sales tax or liquid fuel tax bills out of committee, nor will there be until after the income tax measure has been considered, according to Rep. Keith Lawrence, majority floor leader.

When all the program tax bills have been considered the committee will then be asked by the Democratic floor leader to recommend passage in its entirity with resorting to a separate vote on individual bills.

After the bills are reported out by the tax committee and before they are voted upon finally by the house, the members again have the privilege of amending them.

A PAIN IN THE NECK

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—A man here has had a piece of wire in his throat for two years—without knowing it. Two years ago C. Wurth was working on a seed drill when a piece of thin wire about three-quarters of an inch long flew off and struck him in the throat, causing a small wound. He consulted a doctor when a pain appeared in the neck, and to his surprise the wire was extracted.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES GAS, FINANCES AND HOSPITAL EXPENSE

45-CENT GAS FIGHT SEEN

Council members got a lot of steam off their chests, Wednesday evening, with several matters of financial interest being discussed. A move was also made for a shown-down with the Universal Pipeline Co. as to whether or not gas is going to be piped to this city as promised. If sufficient action is not pledged councilmen plan to pass a 45 cent rate with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and place the next move up to the utility.

The gas matter was opened for discussion by Ben H. Gordon with W. F. Baker and W. M. Reid adding their voices to the plan with a result that Baker instructed Solicitor Carl Leist to write W. H. Phipps of the Universal Co. asking him for action.

"STATE OF CITY"

Mr. Gordon, chairman of the finance committee, started the ball rolling after he reported the "state of the city" financially. The general fund overdraft at this time is $2,649.22, Gordon reported, with the following balances in other funds; Library, $2,298.71; auto street repair, $894.96; gasoline tax, $1,304.37, and hospital, $865.24. The finance chairman also told council that salaries of police, firemen and hospital employes had not been paid for Nov. 15.

After quoting these figures Gordon said he understood the cost of operating Berger hospital was considerable over last year and urged that the difference between receipts and expenditures be narrowed. He said operating costs for October were almost twice as much as receipts.

CITES CHARITY CASES

He cited a large number of charity cases. "There are some charity cases," the councilman said, "which must have hospital care but there are a number of others," he went on, "which could be cared for in the homes. It costs the hospital more than $5 per person before they even begin to work on a case," he said.

Safety Director L. T. Shaner, who has the hospital under his wing, informed council that $3,000 remains on the books in delinquent accounts and that no effort has been made to collect any of it. He asked Solicitor Carl Leist if he wanted help, to which Mr. Leist replied that an attempt to collect some of the money would be made as soon as money is appropriated to purchase stationery and stamps for him to send letters to the delinquents.

Mr. Shaner also told council that coal had been purchased for the institution "on time." He said that $400 had been appropriated at the beginning of the year for repairs to the heating plant. Only $5 of that amount has been used, Shaner stated, and asked if it were possible for the other $395 to be reappropriated to go into a fuel fund for the hospital. This was ordered although Councilman Gordon said he understood the heating plant needed more repair.

MONEY TO LIBRARY

A sum of $2,258 was transferred from the library fund to the library, $1,000 for new books, $1,000 for incidentals and $258 for salaries.

After the long discussion on finances Councilman Reid tossed a ray of hope into the meeting by declaring that from all appearances the legislature is going to take some action to alleviate conditions.

A move was also discussed to seek an advance for city officials who have not yet received their pay envelopes.

Our first basket ball game will be with Pickaway, on their floor, December 7. This game is only two week away.

Armistice Day, Robert Louis Stevenson's birthday, and National Book Week were observed in the Assembly program, Friday, Nov. 16.

The pupils are rejoicing over their Thanksgiving vacation which includes November 29 and 30 and December 1 and 2.

The Christmas vacation extends from December 21 to January 2.

New Republican Leaders Sought

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—Demand for new leadership in the Republican party in Ohio today suffered a setback with the refusal of the state central committee to seriously consider a resolution requesting the resignation of Walter F. Brown, Toledo, as national committeeman from Ohio.

Brown once was postmaster general. Fred Warner, Marion, former Republican state chairman, offered the removal resolution, but the committee tabled it by a vote of 26 to 2. Only Dr. H. J. Johnson, of Tontogany, Wood-co, voted with Warner against the motion to table.

MORGAN SUPPORTED

Warner was understood to have proposed that the committee name Daniel E. Morgan, Cleveland, committeeman in Brown's place. Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, nosed out Morgan for the party nomination for governor last August.

Clarence Brown's defeat by Martin L. Davey, Democrat, in the recent general election brought a charge from Warner that Mayor Harry L. Davis, of Cleveland, "lay down on the job" after the party nominee refused to promise Davis personal control of all Cuyahoga-co patronage.

Davey carried Cuyahoga-co by an overwhelming majority. Warner contended that Mayor Davis' alleged indifference contributed to Brown's defeat.

Confronted by a deficit of $7,000, the state central committee decided to make it up through assessments against prominent members of the Republican party.

A decision was reached to establish permanent headquarters here for the central committee and to maintain a permanent Republican state publicity bureau.

Lost $500

Six months delay cost H. N. Van Vleet, Rockford, Ill., a total of $500, according to his own report. He had apparently spent that much for relief of stomach suffering before he heard of Udga. Today for the first time in five years he says he can eat anytime in five years he says he can eat anything. He now gives credit for his recovery to the Udga Treatment, based on a famous stomach specialist's triple-action prescription. OVERCOMES BAD BREATH

Clean Out Kidney Poisons

Wash Out Your 15 Miles Of Kidney Tubes

If kidneys don't pass 3 pints a day that contain nearly 4 pounds of waste matter, the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters become clogged with poisonous waste products and the danger of acid poisoning is greatly increased. Bladder passages are difficult . . . which often smart and burn like scalding water and cause discomfort.

This acid condition, brought about by poor kidney functions is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Most people watch their bowels which contain only 27 feet of intestines but neglect the kidneys which contain 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters. If these tubes or filters become clogged with poisons, it may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't run any risk. Make sure your kidneys empty 3 pints a day.

Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

League Seeks to Put New Deal "On Spot" In Pre-Congress Rally

WASHINGTON—A plan to put the New Deal on the spot with a sensational publicity coup is being hatched secretly by master minds of the Liberty League.

The plan is to hold a national "non-partisan" rally in Chicago about December 15—just before Congress convenes. Alfred E. Smith and Senator William E. Borah are the proposed Big Berthas of the occasion.

With these two stellar performers commanding the headlines, the League would be able to get over a flood of covertly anti-administration propaganda—demands for the end of further New Deal experiments, inflation, big government spending.

Preparations for the proposed event are being pushed under the closest guarded secrecy.

This is done for two reasons. First, to obtain all the advantages that may be derived from springing it as a surprise. Second, to keep the date of the meeting open until the last possible moment so that it can be held after the President makes his already announced "fireside" radio talk.

Guarded overtures already have been made to Borah and Smith proposing their participation.

New Deal Forums

Meanwhile, the Administration, without any knowledge of the Liberty League's maneuvers, is planning a forum of its own.

Its purpose, however, is entirely different. Behind the plan is the aim of the President and of John W. Studebaker, new Commissioner of Education, to promote adult education.

To this end they expect to establish a series of "Town Halls" or open forums throughout the country. The first of these probably will be in Washington, and one of the New Deal's chief critics and a rival candidate against Franklin Roosevelt—Norman Thomas—will be invited to speak.

The President personally is most enthusiastic over the idea.

Bonus Evasion

Frank N. Belgrano, new National Commander of the American Legion, hotly denies reports that he was personnally not in agreement with the Miami convention vote for immediate payment of the bonus.

Most significant, however, was his first public address after election. In it he declared that "Americanism" was the first objective of the Legion and carefully skirted the bonus issue.

Soul Cultivation

Cultivation of the artistic talents of the unemployed is being seriously undertaken by the FERA.

Because it is readily vulnerable to ridicule, this phase of relief activity has been little publicized; but it is doing a flourishing business.

The work is an extension of the CWA experiment in art relief last winter, and is being done by jobless painters, writers, actors ,musicians, whose talents cannot profitably be employed in building roads, making mattresses, or digging sewers.

Some of the recent cultural activities of these groups are: a troop of actors touring CCC camps with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and other plays; a painter doing murals on the walls of a state prison dining hall in New York; an orchestra playing for hospital patients in California; a sculptor doing mosaics in a public park in Texas; an architect making models of a museum in Colorado.

The big problem of FERA authorities is to determine what is art and what is not, and to keep "phonies" from worming their way into the "artistic" ranks.

'DICK' DENMAN HURT AFTER POLICE CHASE

Damages Crites Station in North End Before Wild Drive Through City

AUTO IS DESTROYED

Pulled From Burning Car By City Police

Harry 'Dick' Denman, Jr., 30, was taken home from Berger hospital today suffering painful but not serious injuries and probably trying to recall events which led to his confinement in the hospital.

Denman, allegedly intoxicated, led police officers a 'merry' but highly dangerous chase through principal streets of the city early Wednesday evening culminating in a collision with a truck on E. Mound-st at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing. Denman's Pontiac coupe turned over several times and burst into flames with Officers Raymond Smith and Alva Shasteen pulling him from the car a moment before it was enveloped in flames. Had they been a minute later Denman would probably have perished in the car.

PENNIES FOUND

Several hundred persons rushed to the scene of the crash Wednesday evening and a scramble resulted when a number of pennies, probably from Denman's automobile, were found on the ground.

INJURED INTERNALLY

He was taken to the hospital in the Albaugh ambulance and was placed in the care of Dr. E. R. Austin who reported Thursday that his condition was not serious although he has internal injuries including possible fractured ribs, cuts on his face and head and a badly lacerated finger.

Police received a call from the new north end Crites filling station to hurry there at once. Without waiting to learn details Officers Smith and Shasteen darted up N. Court-st. As they drove into the driveway of the station, a man, unknown to them, drove out at high speed narrowly missing their automobile.

Smith, at the wheel, turned around and started to follow the fugitive. Down Court-st to Pinckney, on Pinckney to Scioto-st, they sped, at times touching 70 on their speedometers. The fugitive turned south on Scioto-st, and running red lights and endangering pedestrians and other motorists, he kept ahead of the police car. His car nearly turned over when it hurled across the N. & W. railroad tracks. He turned on Harrison-st and went back up Court to Mound. The two machines close together, maintained their great speed clear to the end of Mound-st where Denman's machine hit the truck of L. F. Galbraith, of near Laurelville. Galbraith was later arrested by police for intoxication.

SHOT AT FUGITIVE

During the chase Officer Shasteen shot at the fleeing automobile trying to break a tire but was not successful. During the entire chase neither officer knew who was in the other car, they said.

Denman's car was demolished in the wreck and the fire. The truck was not badly damaged. The fire department spent considerable time at the scene.

Denman operates a service station north of this city and, apparently angered by competition provided by the Crites Oil Co. since it opened its new station opposite Forest cemetery, picked up an iron rod, Wednesday evening, and went to the Crites station. Kenneth Majors and Terry Hitchcock were in charge but they evaded him. He started striking the porcelain structure with the iron rod. Majors called the police.

Damage at the Crites station was estimated over $200.

Charges of driving while intoxicated, and operating a motor vehicle without due respect for pedestrians were filed against him today by Officer Shasteen.

Galbraith, the truck driver, was fined $100 and costs and committed to the county jail charged with driving while intoxicated. His driving rights were suspended for six months by Mayor W. B. Cady.

6-MONTHS SALES TAX SEEN

GREEN URGES INCOME TAXES

Delegates To Farm Convention Hear Plea as Solution of Tax Question.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, today, told more than 2,000 delegates to the organization's 16th annual convention here that the passage of a net earned income tax law is the first step in the solution of Ohio's tax problem.

A retail sales tax, Green asserted, should be resorted to "only as an emergency measure."

Green spoke at the opening session of the federation's two-day convention here.

"You will be told," Green said in addressing the convention today, "that a net earned income tax law will not produce sufficient revenue to meet our needs. No doubt this statement is partially true, but further let it be known that if many exemptions which have usually been granted under income tax provisions were excluded, on an income basis, Ohio would amply meet its tax needs."

As to the sales tax, a program which is now being considered by the state legislature, Green had this to say:

"No form of a general retail sales tax can do other than to place again on a small income the major portion of our tax burden and a general retail sales tax is not a tax based on ability to pay, but one based on our necessity to purchase."

The exception to this, Green said, is the "specialized sales tax for which the farm bureau stands."

Green paid tribute to the "constructive force" of the nation's political leadership and announced that the farm bureau would continue to support the major objectives of the Agricultural Adjustment act.

Police Court

Leo Buzzard, of Oakland; Roy Huffman, of Tarlton, and Duke Watson, this city, were each fined $5 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady, Thursday morning, after their arrest for intoxication Wednesday evening.

Pearl Watson, 38, an inmate of the Columbus state hospital, was taken into custody at the home of his father, Half-ave, Wednesday night by Sheriff Radcliff and Deputy Custer. Watson had escaped the institution.

William Lintz, Scioto-twp, was in jail today after his arrest for stealing corn from Charles Ward, Scioto-twp. Deputy Custer arrested him.

Charles and James Kuhn, this city, were placed in jail by Constable Oscar Worber on charges of stealing corn from a Jackson-twp farmer.

Arthur Heffner, Saltcreek-twp, was arrested by Deputy Armstrong for stealing corn from Lewis Crawford, Whisler.

Plan Gaining Support as Lewis, of Senate, Urges That Final Bill Be Left for Davey's Assembly; Exemptions Voted Down

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—Shifting their attack momentarily from the sales tax to a proposal to re-enact the one-cent liquid fuel tax, critics of the White emergency tax program today suffered another defeat.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—An attempt to limit the duration of the proposed 3 per cent bracket sales tax to the first six months of 1935 was to be made today in the Ohio house of representatives by sales tax opponents.

As the bill now stands, the act would expire on Dec. 31, 1935, unless re-enacted by the 91st General Assembly which meets for the first time next January.

An amendment to restrict the sales tax to six months was being drawn up by Rep. W. P. Van Nees (R) Mechanicsburg, who has been promised support for it by such leading anti-sales tax members as Rep. P. E. Ward (R) Chardon, and Rep. E. R. Hummell (D) Carroll.

BACKED BY LEWIS

Such proposal has been advocated by Sen. Earl R. Lewis (R) St. Clairsville, minority floor leader in the senate. Lewis contends that the present session should do no more than handle the emergency situation, leaving a permanent program to be worked out by the administration of Gov.-elect Martin L. Davey.

Although it has survived several major hurdles, the sales tax bill was to meet an even greater hazard this afternoon when the special house taxation committee takes a vote on recommending passage of the entire emergency tax program of Gov. George White.

Discomposed by the success of the controversial tax measure in withstanding repeated assaults thus far, even the most confirmed opponents were beginning to believe the lower house eventually will pass the sales tax and the rest of the program.

The senate is waiting to learn what disposition is made of the program in the house before acting upon it. There is strong senate opposition to a sale stax, but on the basis of past performances, concurrence of the upper branch

LEGION'S MEMBER CONTEST PLANNED

Howard Hall post, American Legion, is laying plans for a membership drive with impetus being given the campaign at the annual rabbit supper Wednesday which more than 40 members attended.

Two teams have been named for the drive with William Betts Jr., colonel of one team, aided by Lorin Dudleson and Ralph Ward as majors. Ed C. Ebert is colonel of the other with Orin Dreisbach and Fred Dauenhauer his majors.

Plans were also discussed for another dance at Memorial Hall with Lawrence Goeller as chairman of the committee. The date and the orchestra have not yet been determined.

The rabbit supper was complete with mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, celery, pickles, bread, butter and coffee being prepared by E. R. Coffland, Karl Miller and their helpers.

Named by Butler in Fascist Charge

Named by General Smedley D. Butler as the man who had asserted-ly asked him to lead a Fascist coup against Washington, Gerald P. MacGuire, left, connected with a New York brokerage firm, has denied the assertion. The former marine corps commander said MacGuire suggested that a private army of 500,000 ex-soldiers be organized and that $3,000,000 could be raised for the purpose. On right is MacGuire's attorney, Norman L. Marks, who termed the disclosure as a "joke and a publicity stunt for General Butler". The congressional committee investigating un-American subversive movements in New York is pushing an inquiry into the alleged plot.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is Near Breakdown After Ruling

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.— Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, verging on a nervous breakdown, learned today that her chances of regaining complete custody of her ten year old daughter, Gloria, are well-nigh hopeless.

The decree by which Supreme Court Justice Carew made the child heiress a ward of the state like any child of the slums—is almost air-tight, the distraught widow of "Reggie" Vanderbilt was told.

In a preliminary study of the judge's ruling her attorneys have found but one possible loophole by which the decision that gives little Gloria to her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney for five days a week and to the mother only over the week-ends, can be upset.

That is to draft a plea to the appellate court for a mandamus to compel Justice Carew to redraft the decision he handed down yesterday to make it subject to appeal.

AVOIDS DECISION

In ruling in the sensational seven weeks' Vanderbilt-Whitney struggle for possession of the child the justice avoided a direct decision on Mrs. Vanderbilt's application for a writ of habeas corpus to force Mrs. Whitney to relinquish Gloria to her mother. His failure either to deny or grant the application automatically blocked an appeal to the higher court.

But counsel for the young widow are prepared to argue her constitutional rights to an appeal and to insist that Justice Carew be forced to revise his ruling.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, to whom the judge's decision seemed "unbelievable," made known today that she will not call at the Whitney home in Long Island this coming Saturday to bring Gloria to her home in Manhattan for the week-end. Nor will she until all attempts to upset Justice Carew's ruling have been exhausted. She fears that such an apparent surrender might prejudice her case.

WARNER, BAER, M'MANAMY IN MAYOR'S PLAN

Council Votes Retirement Plan Effective as Soon as Possible

BOARDS NECESSARY

Source of Pension Funds Not Yet Certain

Retirement of three veterans of the police and fire departments appeared in the near future after council, under suspension of rules so financial matters could be included in their 1935 budget, passed a pension ordinance in its Wednesday evening session.

The veterans to be retired are Police Chief W. H. Warner, Officer Thomas McManamy and Fire Inspector John S. Baer, under the plan of Mayor W. B. Cady. Mayor Cady announced at council meeting that only one person, a new chief of police, will be named to replace all three. It is believed the duties of inspector of fire hazards will fall upon the shoulders of Chief Talmer Wise.

At present the combined salaries of the three men to be retired total $2,400, the police chief getting $1,200 and each of the others $600.

KEPT ON PAYROLL

Chief Warner has remained on active duty, while Officer McManamy early this year became a desk officer. Mr. Baer became fire inspector several years ago. Both positions, desk officer and fire inspector, were arranged by council so neither of the men would be "turned out in the cold" after many years of service. Under the pension plan they will be provided for.

Just how soon the retirement system can be put into effect depends upon several details. It is necessary to have a pension board appointed of members of the departments affected, members of council and an outside individual selected by the other members. W. F. Baker, president pro tem of council, appointed Ben H. Gordon and C. O. Leist as the council's members to help arrange the fire retirement system, and selected W. M. Reid and J. H. Helwagen for the police system. The firemen and police will each select two of their members and when the various groups meet the fifth person, the outsider, will be named.

SET AGE AT 65

The pension boards will determine the age for retirement, which Mayor Cady favors at 65, the retirement fund to be paid and other details.

The source of revenue for the retirement fund resulted in a misunderstanding in council. Solicitor Carl Leist said his understanding was that council could appropriate up to 3-10 of a mill from each dollar out of the general fund for the pension fund while Mayor Cady insisted the 3-10 mill should be above the lawful 10 mill limit. It will be necessary to decide this before much can be done. Leist quoted Tom Krine as his authority while Cady said his information was from Judge Adkins.

There were no dissenting votes on either suspension of rules or passage of the ordinances.

It is now past time for the county budget commission to meet, Councilman Reid pointed out, but dates for hearings have not yet been set so the city will be able to include the retirement system in its 1935 budget plans. Had the ordinances for pensions been permitted to take their proper course of three readings they would have been voted upon too late for inclusion in the 1935 budget.

PEALER TO OUTLAW "NUMBERS" RACKET

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.— The "numbers" racket must go.

That was the decision today of Safety Director Winfield S. Pealer as Columbus police officials revealed plans for a determined drive against "stock market bookies" to rid the city of the racket "within 10 days."

The racket is operated on the basis of the daily stock sales totals from the New York Stock exchange and other markets. Anything from a penny on up can be bet, the bettor taking his choice of the number.

Hundreds of persons in Columbus make their living collecting daily bets. Major Pealer declared the racket had grown to such proportions that "it reaches into every office in Columbus and takes money from hundreds who are in serious need of the money."

IOWA ENDS OHIO YEAR

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22—After an absence of several years the Iowa Cornhuskers will appear at Ohio stadium Saturday to help the Scarlet close its first season under the tutelage of Coach Francis A. Schmidt. Incidentally this will be the first appearance of the Hawkeyes under the coaching of Ossie Solem.

Iowa is expected to start the game on even terms with the Bucks. The Westerners have had two weeks in which to prepare for this struggle and have the benefit of Coach Solem's personal observations last Saturday at the Michigan-Ohio game. That the Iowa coach went back with a book full of notes and diagrams was evident by his heavy work in the press box.

ALL ARE READY

The Ohio squad, barring injuries in practice this week, should be in good condition for the game, despite the fact the players have traveled at top speed since September 15. All of the boys came out of the Michigan game in good shape, barring the usual bruises.

Any feeling of over-confidence on the part of the Ohioans was dispelled at the Monday evening practice when Coach Schmidt raked them over the coals in no uncertain manner for mistakes in the Michigan game. Close critics are of the opinion that under Schmidt's direction an Ohio team will never lose a game because of over-confidence.

The Iowa-Ohio rivalry started back in 1922 and then was discontinued in 1929. During that time Iowa won four, Ohio State three, and one game ended in a tie.

Ohio, unscored on in its last three games, probably will see its goal line crossed Saturday as Iowa boast two of the fastest and most elusive ball carriers in the conference in Dick Cravne and Ozzie Simmons, the Fort Worth, Tex., boy, whom Coach Schmidt saw play many times while the latter coached at Texas Christian.

Saturday's game will be the last for Ohio and is expected to boost the year's total attendance for games at home and abroad to near the 275,000 mark.

TRADITION GOES ON UNDER BUCK COACH

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.— For years and years there has been a tradition at Ohio State university that on the last night of practice the graduating members of the football squad take their last tackle at the dummy.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt, ending his first year as coach here, plans to continue that tradition. After the final workout for the Iowa game Friday night, "Schmitty" will lead 9 members of his squad onto the practice field for their "last tackle." The members are:

Dave Jones, Jackson; Jack Smith, Hamilton; John McAfee, Ironton; Damon Wetzel, Columbus; Bud Cox, Springfield; James Scott, Toledo, George Neal, Dayton. Regis Monahan Lorain, State's All-American guard candidate, and George Kabealo, Youngstown.

A reorganized athletic league with Lancaster, Coshocton, Zanesville and any three of Chillicothe, Athens, Bexley, Logan, Circleville or Washington C. H. is advocated by Carl Lehman in the Lancaster Daily Gazette—The league would no doubt be a peach but when the local school, Chillicothe and Washington C. H. started their more than 100 mile grind to Coshocton for a small guarantee it seems that discord in the loop would result—And another thing, we can't win in the Central Buckeye league so what chance would we have in a loop comprised of the above teams—No thank, you * * * It is certain, however, that Circleville sports fans would turn out better to see the teams in the proposed league play than they do to see the CBL outfits.

It's the season for trades, sales and give-aways in the big and small leagues, and the St. Louis Cardinals, Wednesday, gave away a mighty good pitcher in Tex Carleton for two hurlers who can only do their farms good, Tinning and Ward of the Chicago Cubs—One of the two will probably travel toward Columbus—It is with interest that we read where George Toporcer and Estell Crabtree may be Columbus bound—Crabbie, long a favorite in the Columbus park, would fit in the picture very nicely, but how Toporcher would rate is beyond us * * * That Lew Riggs won't be back is certain since the Cincinnati Reds have bought him—Wonder what the sale price was?

GOPHER INTEREST IN ROSE BOWL TILT

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 22—Followers of Minnesota's unbeaten, untied powerhouse football team today expressed more interest in possible participation in the Rose Bowl contest New Year's day than the proposed conference "play-off" with Ohio State.

But as yet no communications have been received by the University of Minnesota concerning the proposed Ohio State-Minnesota game, according to Athletic Director Frank McCormick. McCormick said:

"I will reserve comment until an official communication concerning the game is received."

For either post-season game it would be necessary to have the consent of the Western conference faculty committee, which has ruled against such contests.

LUTHERAN LADIES' SOCIETY MEETS

Fifty four members assembled for the November meeting of the Ladies' society of Trinity Lutheran church, Wednesday afternoon, in the Parish house.

Dr. G. J. Troutman, president, opened the meeting with song, scripture reading and prayer. Mrs. Cyril Palm gave a reading, "Unknown to the Covetous," and Miss Anna Schleyer played a piano solo.

Dr. Troutman then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Charles Diehlman, a member of the thankoffering committee. Mrs. Diehlman gave a reading, "The Thankoffering Department" and Marion Sensenbrenner entertained with two vocal numbers, "Others," and "The Old Rugged Cross."

Thankoffering boxes were then returned. It is desired that all members not attending yesterday's meeting return their thankoffering boxes to the church Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Bower, delegate to the convention of the Women's Missionary Federation of the American Lutheran church held recently at Oshkosh, Wis., gave a report. Two vocal solos, "There's an Old Water Mill by a Water Fall" and "Why Don't You Practice What You Preach," were given by Carolyn Herrmann, who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Karl Herrmann.

At the conclusion of the program lunch was served by the November committee including Mrs. W. F. Heffner, chairman, Mrs. Ed Mason, Mrs. Harry Dresbach, Mrs. J. Wallace Crist, Mrs. Clarence Wolf, Mrs. Harry Lane, Mrs. John Dresbach, Mrs. William Gearhart and Mrs. Christian Reichelderfer.

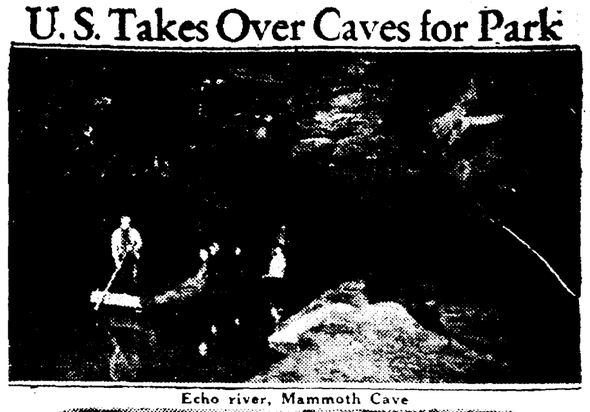
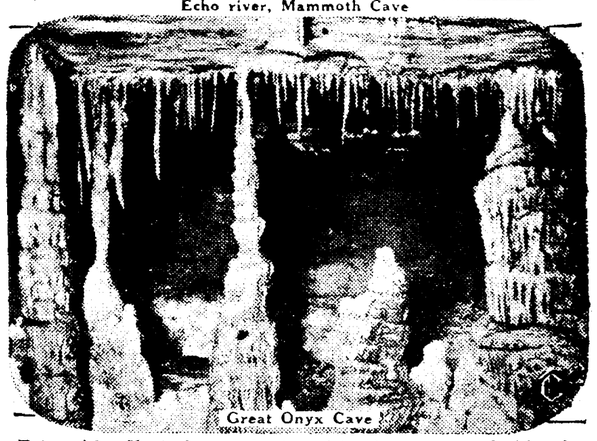
U.S. Takes Over Caves for Park



Echo river, Mammoth Cave



Great Onyx Cave

Enterprising Kentucky merchants and tourist camps are looking for better days as a result of the final dedication of Mammoth Cave National park, hoping that Uncle Sam's action will increase the swarm of sightseers at the natural spectacle. For years American and foreign visitors have followed flickering lamp flames through the miles of sunless pathways, past gigantic limestone stalactites and fissures. More than 200 miles of Mammoth Cave have been explored, and guides say there are hundreds of other untouched corners. The national park, which includes scores of lesser known caves, will contain more than 45,000 acres when the last strip of parkland is taken over.

Why Milk Was Late

ARLINGTON, Mass.—A milk wagon had a blow out. It was one of those new fangled wagons with the four wheels equipped with balloon tires. So the driver pulled into a gasoline filling station and hitched the horse to a gasoline pump so that the wagon would not be pulled off the jack while tire was being changed.

ASHVILLE

Thursday afternoon, Nov. 15, at 4:30, Miss Louise Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ford of South Bloomfield, and Chas. Piatt son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Piatt, of Delaware, were united in marriage by Rev. Paul C. Scott, pastor of the Methodist church. Attending the couple were Howard Ford, brother of the bride and Miss Mildred Price, friend of the bride. For the affair, in which the double ring ceremony was used, the bride wore a formal dress of old rose crepe, with green satin trimmings and black accessories. Miss Price wore a black ankle-length dress. The bride carried sunburst roses. The bride is a graduate of Ashville High School class of 1933. Mr. Piatt is employed by the Cheaspeake and Ohio Railroad Co., at Delaware. The couple will reside at Delaware.

Honoring Mrs. Charles Piatt, the former Miss Louise Ford of South Bloomfield, Miss Edna Schlarp and Miss Mildred Price entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Schlarp, Wednesday evening, which also happened to be the birthday of the honored guest.

Miss Gertrude Martin of McConnellsville was the week-end guest of Miss Elizabeth Plum.

Henry Wins Turkey On Business Figure

The Harry A. Chipman Agency celebrated its 11th anniversary at the Granville Inn last Wednesday where 158 agents and their wives were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chipman. Prominent speakers from the New York office delivered instructive and inspiring addresses during the day. The big turkey dinner at the noon hour was bounteous and this anniversary was heralded by all as the greatest meeting in the history of the agency.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, local representatives for the Equitable Life of U. S., qualified by their production during the October campaign for this big event. Total volume in the Chipman Agency was $2,400,000, and the total volume for the Lehman district was over $800,000 for the month. Over 60 per cent of this volume, according to E. E. Lehman, district manager, was written in the form of annuities, a very popular form of investment.

Four of the 35 agents in the Lehman district won special recognition and were awarded live turkeys for writing 11 or more applications during the campaign. Karl W. Anderson, Newark; Mrs. Tressie Davenport, Black Lick; J. W. Henry, Circleville; Miles Levering, London.

How your MONEY WORKS FOR YOU IN A Checking Account

When you put your money in a savings account you get interest on it. In a checking account you get service for it—and let the bank draw the interest. In return for this interest the bank gives you privileges worth far more to you than the interest itself.

When you maintain a balance commensurate with your use of your checking account privileges, the bank will be reimbursed for the expense of serving you. Otherwise, the bank may properly look to you to meet this expense.

No Neglect of Veterans

THE vociferous Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, one of the loudest advocates of the immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, has been defeated for reelection and in his place Sherman Minton, who soldiered in France, has been elected.

Mr. Minton takes the position that veterans have no special claim for favors from the government solely because they are veterans. "Payment of compensation to able-bodied veterans of the World war would be robbing disabled veterans and widows and orphans of men who sacrificed their lives," Mr. Minton maintains. "I haven't any right to live off this country because I served it in war."

The roll call will reveal just how many Mintons there are in congress and how many there are who, ignoring the best interests of the country at large, conform to the will of the formidable veterans' lobby.

To these members of congress, to the veterans themselves and to the general public, figures given out by Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans' bureau, will prove enlightening.

Germany's toll in the World war was 6,111,862 dead and wounded, and the cost to the government for each soldier is $48.87. France's toll was 5,625,000 and the cost is $50.29 a man. England's was 3,000,000, with a cost of $58.28 a man. The United States had 322,497 dead and wounded, and today is paying out $2,668.55 a year for each soldier.

In view of the record, who can say that the United States has been lacking in gratitude to the men who served the country in a great emergency or has failed to make adequate provision for those who suffered from war's devastations?

An Enemy Conquered

A 70-year-old physician, Dr. William W. Park, director of the research laboratories of the New York City health department, has just made an announcement of a discovery which will take its place among the notable achievements of medical science and produce incalculable benefits to humanity.

A few months ago, Dr. Park and his associate, Dr. Maurice Brody, of New York University made known that they had succeeded in immunizing monkeys against infantile paralysis and that the effectiveness of the vaccine developed would be tested upon themselves and also upon children.

These tests have since been finished with completely satisfactory results, and plans are now being made by Dr. Park to administer the serum to children as fast as it can be produced. The serum developed is taken from the spine of a monkey after he has been inoculated with the virus. In order to lower the cost of the inoculating, now one dollar a method is being considered whereby monkeys would be inoculated with the poliomyelitis virus in India, killed there and their spinal cords shipped to this country for the preparation of the vaccine.

The ravages of infantile paralysis in the past, producing death and maiming in the helpless years, to think upon and the rumors of the disease are a cause of almost constant fear in the minds of parents. Accordingly, the knowledge that this menace to children and adults has been challenged through the advancement of medical science constitutes genuine cause for rejoicing.

"CAROLINE" by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS

Caroline Rutledge and Howard Dunsworth become engaged despite the opposition of their fathers, Philip Rutledge and Henry Dunsworth, who have been enemies for years. Then Henry ruins Philip in business and Caroline breaks her engagement when it is obvious that money means more to Howard than love. He explained he would be disinherited if they married and now that Caroline had no money, he did not see how they could manage. The Rutledges leave "Hawthorn," their luxurious home, and go to live in a poor section of town. Alva, Caroline's mother, collapses from shock and fatigue. Their neighbors, Malcolm Stuart and his mother, come to the family's assistance. Malcolm is an inspector at the Rutledge factory. Though Philip, himself, is helpless in their adversity and leaves the burden on Caroline's shoulders, he snobbishly resents the idea of accepting aid from "these people" as he terms the Stuarts. One day, Philip warns Caroline: "You must be careful of that Stuart boy, my dear. It's quite possible that he would be presumptuous enough to fall in love with you." Malcolm overhears the remark. Caroline tells Malcolm not to mind her father for he never thought any boy was the right one for her, adding: "I shouldn't want you to fall in love with me because I couldn't return it. Their eyes meet. Caroline's pity for Malcolm prevented her from realizing how perfect had been the fusion of their minds in that one glance. Never had there been between her and Howard one moment so electric and breathless as this. Next day, Malcolm avoids Caroline. She returns to "Hawthorn" to retrieve two pictures which she does not wish included in the auction sale of their furniture. Gwendolyn Hoffman, a social climber, who had always been envious of Caroline, wants the pictures. While Gwendolyn is arguing with the auctioneer, a group of Caroline's friends spirit the pictures out of the house. Later, Caroline and her friends climb into Caroline's dilapidated car and go to the country club which Mr. Rutledge so generously helped support in his heyday. It lifted Caroline's spirits to be with her friends, but the lark soon turned into a cruel piece of realism.

CHAPTER XV

They decided first of all to have something to drink. Caroline marshaled them gaily up to the club house and a corner of the long piazza where tables and chairs were clustered. They arranged themselves in comfort and ordered what they wanted. When the bill was presented the two young men wanted to toss a coin to see which of them should settle it.

Caroline heard their suggestion with mingled feelings. Nice of them—she understood—but there was a wound in it. They had come as her guest; that, she had thought, was taken for granted. She reached out for the bill, took it up. "Allow me one last grand gesture, please," she laughed.

Something in her voice silenced them. She signed the paper and handed it to the waiter. He left with it, but a few moments later, as they were preparing to leave the piazza, he reappeared with a message for Caroline from the steward.

"Would she be good enough to see him in his office?"

Although the younger set had sometimes been complained of by the older members of the club Caroline had been well liked by the steward and his staff, and there wasn't a caddy on the place who wouldn't have missed a championship game to carry her clubs.

The steward's voice was filled with regret as he handed her back the slip of paper she had signed and told her that her father had resigned his membership.

"We shall be happy to have you and your friends consider yourselves guests of the club on this occasion," he added courteously.

Caroline thanked him but said she'd prefer to send the money. She didn't dare offer to pay the bill then and there. She didn't know exactly how much money she had in her bag—whether or not it would be sufficient. It would be too embarrassing to find it wasn't.

She went back to her friends and made the best of a bad half hour—she knew she was going to miss the club—and at the end of it her friends informed her they'd have to drag themselves back to the university.

Caroline remembered, with a jolt, that she had promised to pick up her father at four o'clock. "What time is it?" she asked in sudden fear that the hour was past.

"It's three forty-five and I swore to find out something about biology before three thirty!" one of the girls exclaimed. "Let's go!"

"You'll have to take us back to your house, Caroline," another said unthinkingly. "We left our bus there."

Hawthorn House was on the road from the club to the hotel in town where Caroline was to meet her father. She didn't want to be late and put him in an ill humor. And she knew now why he had chosen the hotel instead of one of his clubs. He'd resigned from every last one of them, probably. Poor old darling.

The waiter returned with a message from the steward for Caroline asking her if she would be good enough to see him in his office.

She drove with a speed that satisfied even her passengers. The town was accustomed to seeing cars filled with undergraduates in a hurry and let them have traffic much their own way.

It was only ten minutes past four when Caroline drew up before the appointed place. The doorman looked with indifference at the car but when he came over to it and recognized Caroline—the smartest of the large social affairs and the most exclusive assemblies were held there and Caroline had attended most of them during the past two years—he touched his cap and greeted her pleasantly. He even went inside, himself, to tell her father she was waiting.

When Philip Rutledge came out Caroline saw that he was flushed and unsteady. She did not question him during the drive to South Town about his day, but he volunteered the information that it had brought him only further discouragement. With a tightening in her throat Caroline realized that he had been drinking rather heavily.

Bitterness and pity fought for control of her feelings toward him. Then it came to her that after all, while she had not been tempted to dissipation she had done little more than her father to brighten the prospects for their future. And shouldn't she do something? Wasn't it already apparent that her mother was an exquisite parasite? Her father a weakling without his inherited power of bank balance and job dispenser? Harsh judgment, she admitted with an ache in her heart, but wasn't it true? Drink—now! When he needed to keep his faculties clear and his nerves steady. Didn't it mean that he had turned to this relief because of some lack of stability in his character? If his way was to drown his troubles . . .

Caroline possessed an intelligent clarity of vision where those she loved were concerned, once her faith had been jarred, which made her father's attitude clear to her. But strangely, the more strongly she censured them the more compassionate her love became.

It troubled her greatly to think of having her mother see her father in his present condition—Alva was so utterly dependent upon him—if she did not worry for him she must be frightened by her own outlook. Her mother might know, as crushingly as she, that Philip Rutledge had accepted defeat to a degree that would make the recouping of his fortunes highly improbable.

When they reached the house she said firmly: "This is not fair to Mother. I think you'd best go up to your room and not let her see you."

Her father agreed, without protest. "I'm going to change to a dinner jacket," he explained. "You're fond of your mother," he added after a moment of hesitation. "Be a good girl and tuck her in bed when she's had dinner and then get dressed. I want you to go with me—to a little party—some friends of mine—people you don't know." His voice faded, showing he was ill at ease.

They were walking up from the garage. Caroline halted in the path and stared at him. He saw that she was going to refuse.

"I particularly want you to do this, Caroline," he said hastily, "because it's important. It means a great deal to me. A chance to talk to a man I want to interest in a business proposition."

Caroline consented to do as her father asked, but she dreaded meeting strangers, with the need for a pretense of gaiety constantly oppressing her.

It was decided that Mrs. Wade should be asked to stay with her mother, and Caroline half hoped the woman would be unable to remain after her evening's work was done. But Mrs. Wade agreed, and Caroline told herself she was a poor sort of creature to think of failing her father after judging him so severely.

It was only that. . . . She tried to close her mind to the thought that he was taking a questionable course in dragging her into his affairs with strangers. But she couldn't help wondering why she was wanted. Were they climbers, these people, grabbing at their first chance to have a name of social importance on their list of guests? A published list, perhaps.

Well, if that was all the Rutledges had to sell, what did it matter? Until she had found some other way to help. . . . It couldn't be utterly a thing beneath them . . . her father, Philip Rutledge, would never stoop. . . . But there was that slightly shamefaced air about him. Its significance stuck in her mind, filling it with apprehension.

DEERCREEK-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

BASKETBALL

Our basketball season opens Friday evening, Nov. 23 when our teams meet the Washington Twp. teams here. Practice has been in progress for several weeks. Both teams have been working hard, and from present appearances should enjoy a successful season. The lineup for the first game is not yet certain but probably on the boys team we shall find Egbert Harson or Harold Gibson at center, Charles Ebenhack and Ted Corcoran at guards with Gibson alternating between the guard and center positions. Lloyd Wardell and Eugene Anderson will probably start at forwards, strong contenders for the forward positions include Kervyn Morrison, Ehmil Stonerock, George Smith and Harmon Carter each of whom will probably break into the lineup in the first few games. A goodly number of reserves compose a second team, several of whom are expected to be strong contenders for first team positions.

On the girls team, Virginia Betts, Francis Malone, Helen Hill, Mary Hastings, Helen Easter and Ruth Cook will probably start the game. Wanda Jones, Hazel Hastings, and Louise Lozier are strong contenders for first string positions.

The first game will start at 7:30 admission for all school children will be 10c. All others 25c. Come and help get the team off to a flying start.

Our complete schedule is as follows:

Nov. 23, Washington Twp. here.
Dec. 7, Circleville, there.
Dec. 14, Jackson here.
Dec. 21, Perry there.
Jan. 11, Darby here.
Jan. 17, Scioto, there.
Jan. 25, Kingston there.
Feb. 1, Muhlenberg here.
Feb. 7, Walnut there.
Feb. 15, Open.
Feb. 22, Tournament begins.

Due to the increasing traffice on U. S. Route 22 a dangerous condition exists at the intersection where children living in town cross the main road. In an effort to prevent accidents we are organizing a boys patrol, upon the suggestion of a representative from the Governor's Safety Service Commission. Three high school boys will be stationed at the intersection, during times of the day when children are crossing. It will be their duty to stop children from crossing in front of approaching automobiles, and to hold stop signs to the road to halt traffic until the children are safely across. Any motorist failing to heed the stop sign is reported to the State Highway Patrol, and is suoject to arrest. The necessary equipment to outfit the boys has been supplied by the Circleville Kiwanis club. Within the next few days representatives from the Safety Commission, the State Highway Patrol and the County Sheriff's Office will complete the organization of the patrol and instruct the boys how to conduct the work.

Volunteer patrolmen are: Bill Johnson, Edin Frazier, Lyman Jones, Delos Morris, Wendell Jones and Kervyn Morrison.

We are also investigating the possibility of having a stop light erected at this intersection to be used only during school hours.

On Monday, Nov. 19, the seventh and eighth grades presented, as their unit of study for the second six weeks period, the following program:

1. "The Kangaroo and Cockatoo"—Chorus.
2. "Dancing Song"—Hungarian Girls Octette.
3. Trombone Solo — Charles Dreisbach.
4. "The Dumb Wife"—English Folk Song—Mixed Octette.
5. Piano Solo—"Second Valse" —Virginia Hunsicker.
6. Original Dance—"In Old Japan"—Sarah Godden.
7. "Oh Susanna"—Foster—Boys Octette.
8. Piano Solo—Rodino—Dorothy Caudy.
9. Junior Orchestra—Elementary March—Soft Music is Stealing.
10. "Hunting Song"—Chorus.

On Tuesday of last week 44 pupils from our school attended the Cleveland Symphony Concert at memorial Hall in Columbus. The trip was made in Galen Carters school bus. Miss Betts accompanied the group.

Helen Hill, Frances Malone, Harmon Carter, Everett Tomlinson, Billy Johnson and Miss Timmons went to Columbus Saturday to hear Don Cossack at Capital University Conservatory of Music.

Marian Martin Patterns

Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included.

PATTERNS 9200 AND 9021

Today we bring you two chic versions of what skirts should be. Pattern 9200 wraps around to a trim side closing, uses a neatly stitched pleat in back to give the double wrap-around effect and adds a cunningly tabbed, patch pocket in front to achieve a 'this season" air. This design would be just right for business or sports wear. Pattern 9021 is a skirt the larger woman might well choose. Its slenderizing front panel tapers flatteringly to the top and at the knee breaks into smart kick pleats for comfort in walking. A rough nubby wool would be nice for the upper skirt—broadcloth or wool-crepe for the lower.

Pattern 9200 may be ordered in waist sizes 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 28 requires 2⅛ yards 54 inch fabric. Price 15c.

PATTERN 5209

This season hands were meant to be seen, our gloves have all gone gay in the most dashing way. And when they are most cute they are crocheted! This pair is a pleasure to the crocheter, for it's comfortably warm. It's a delight to the beholder, for it's lovely in its dainty popcorn cuff. This cuff can match the glove he done in the color of the glove together with another one or contrast gayly with it.

In pattern 5209 you will find complete instructions for making the glove in three sizes (all given in the one pattern); illustration of the glove and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, O.

20th MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Terror reigned in the realm of romance! Strong men clashed over love—while Fate decided the victor! Stirring, dramatic incidents and tender romance mingled in an exciting thriller of the police ambulance service!

These are the highlights of Columbia's "Against the Law," starring Johnny Mack Brown, which comes Friday and Saturday to the Cliftona theatre. Brown portrays the role of a daring ambulance driver who is involved with George Meeker, his interne-friend, and Sally Blane, the girl they both love, in a gangster feud.

Thrills pile on thrills as the powerful criminal machine closes in about them, driving the young doctor to suicide, and threatening the love of the other two. The surprise climax is filled with nail-raising suspense and tense drama. Lambert Hillyer directed.

"Pro-football" A featurette starring Red Grange and the Chicago Bears in thrilling action sequences of the gridiron is a special added attraction.

AT THE GRAND

The crowd which witnessed the showing of "Return of Terror" at the Grand Theatre Wednesday evening was thrilled by the picture. It is a mystery of the first degree, and interesting from start to finish.

endorsing the New Deal. Some of its leaders actually are scratching around looking for advisors who can interpret Roosevelt policies for them and secure for them the greatest degree of cooperation from the Administration.

This apparently is the aim of the mighty House of Morgan.

Only a few days after the November 6 elections had given Roosevelt the greatest confidence vote in history, Russell Leffingwell, Morgan partner, was busy looking for new advisors to act between the bankers and the Administration.

His attitude was twefold:

1. That the New Deal now looked with more favor upon the bankers; hence the bankers should respond by better cooperation.

2. That the New Deal had the overwhelming support of the country and therefore it was more expedient for the bankers to cooperate.

DAVEY ANNOUNCES ANOTHER DIRECTOR

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—Making his third major cabinet selection, Governor-elect Martin L. Davey today announced appointment of Ora B. Chapman, of Dayton, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor as Ohio director of industrial relations.

Chapman already has accepted the post Davey said. He will succeed Thomas J. Edmondson.

Chapman has been a prominent labor leader in Dayton for many years.

2 DIE TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—Death row at Ohio penitentiary added one today and is to take two away tonight.

E. E. Martin, 38, of Warren, was lodged in a death-row cell this morning to await his execution, scheduled for next April 26, as a result of his conviction for the murder of Charles Campbell, 42, of Tucson, Ariz., last August.

Tonight, two other occupants of death row will go to their doom. They are Herbert Thacker and Ray Freeman, both of Jackson-co. They are scheduled to die at 7:30 p. m. in the electric chair for the murder of Stephen Huntley, 73-year-old Jackson-co recluse, during a $22 robbery.

MURDER ADMITTED

Millville, N. J., Nov. 22.—George Pettit, Jr., 31-year-old chauffeur, has confessed to the brutal murder of his employer, Mrs. Mathilde McGee, 50, the "woman in black" whose body was discovered Monday at Laurel lake, police here announced today.

Police Lieutenant Richard Haines told International News Service that Pettit, after being questioned several hours, admitted having clubbed Mrs. McGee into insensibility with an automobile crank handle and having slashed her throat with a penknife.

6-MONTHS SALES TAX

was anticipated if the house sends over the program.

SCHOOLS VICTORS

Public school interests won an important victory when the house tax committee threw out the plan of allocating sales tax receipts suggested by the governor, substituting a system guaranteeing schools about $25,000,000, or $20 per pupil in 1935.

As the bill now stands in the house, tax experts count on its producing $60,000,000 if it is in effect a full year. The first 10 million would be allocated to old age pensions, the next six million for the retirement of 1935 poor relief bonds, and the next five million for replacing repealed "nuisance" taxes.

Sixty per cent of the remaining 39 millions from a sales tax added to the million and a half a state gross sales tax is expected to yield, and the three million anticipated from a one per cent increase in utilities excise tax, would be sent to a state public school fund.

Receipts of this fund the tax experts believe will amount to about $25,000,000 annually. It would be distributed to all school districts on an average daily attendance basis.

What is left after the schools gets their share would be allocated back to the counties, half on a population basis and half on a tax duplicate basis, to be distributed by the budget commission to political subdivisions.

Such allocation plan pleased neither the school people nor the spokesmen for local governments. The latter fought it vigorously as a discriminatory measure, but the school leaders who while not satisfied with it considered they could do no better now, had the strength to put the plan into the bill.

MILK NOT EXEMPTED

Milk dealers bombarded the legislature to exempt their product from the sales tax, but succeeded only to the extent of having the vote reconsidered by which the house committee first refused to exclude milk. Voting a second time on the milk exemption proposal, the house once more turned it down.

"It seems to me that if you are going to tax a bottle of milk and a loaf of bread, dealers in stocks, bonds and mortgages should not escape similar taxation," said Rep. George Harter (D) Akron.

He offered an amendment to apply the tax to intangible property exempting only bank deposits and accounts receivable, but the house voted it down. A few moments later it voted down Harter's motion to kill the entire sales tax bill.

The farmers, who had been doing well up to this point, lost ground when the committee accepted an amendment authored by Rep. Theodore Kemp (D) Newark, to apply the sales tax to all farm products when sold outside the farm itself.

Effect of this clause would be to require a farmer selling his produce on the market in a city, to charge the same tax as nearby retail store competitors would have to collect on similar articles.

Since no wholesale transaction is taxable, the farmer would collect no tax on products he sold to commission houses or retail stores for resale to the ultimate consumer. In any case, only sales to the ultimate consumer come under the sales tax.

CHAIN TAX BEATEN

Rep. Al Kalb (D) Port Clinton, endeavored to incorporate a chain store tax into the sales tax bill by charging chain stores much higher rates under the licensing provision, but the Democratic floor leader engineered defeat of the proposal. The bill provides for payment of a $1 fee by each store licensed to collect the sales tax. The license is perpetual unless revoked.

All theater admissions of 10 cents and less would have been exempt under an amendment Rep. R. E. Heilker (R) Cincinnati, presented, but which the house defeated.

After accepting or voting down all amendments to the sales tax offered thus far, the committee turned its attention to the 1-cent liquid fuel tax, re-enactment of which is a part of the administration program. It produces about ten million dollars annually for the schools.

Rep. Van Ness and others objected to the liquid fuel tax on the grounds that it countenanced a diversion of funds to public schools which properly could only go to the building of roads. In answering them, Rep. R.A. Pollock (R) Canton author of the bill pointed to the defeat of the constitutional amendment proposing to prohibit gas tax diversion from highway purposes.

No attempt was made to vote either the sales tax or liquid fuel tax bills out of committee, nor will there be until after the income tax measure has been considered, according to Rep. Keith Lawrence, majority floor leader.

When all the program tax bills have been considered the committee will then be asked by the Democratic floor leader to recommend passage in its entirity with resorting to a separate vote on individual bills.

After the bills are reported out by the tax committee and before they are voted upon finally by the house, the members again have the privilege of amending them.

A PAIN IN THE NECK

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—A man here has had a piece of wire in his throat for two years—without knowing it. Two years ago C. Warth was working on a seed drill when a piece of thin wire about three-quarters of an inch long flew off and struck him in the throat, causing a small wound. He consulted a doctor when a pain appeared in the neck, and to his surprise the wire was extracted.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES GAS, FINANCES AND HOSPITAL EXPENSE

45-CENT GAS FIGHT SEEN

Council members got a lot of steam off their chests, Wednesday evening, with several matters of financial interest being discussed. A move was also made for a shown-down with the Universal Pipeline Co. as to whether or not gas is going to be piped to this city as promised. If sufficient action is not pledged councilmen plan to pass a 45 cent rate with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and place the next move up to the utility.

The gas matter was opened for discussion by Ben H. Gordon with W. F. Baker and W. M. Reid adding their voices to the plan with a result that Baker instructed Solicitor Carl Leist to write W. H. Phipps of the Universal Co. asking him for action.

"STATE OF CITY"

Mr. Gordon, chairman of the finance committee, started the ball rolling after he reported the "state of the city" financially. The general fund overdraft at this time is $2,649.22, Gordon reported, with the following balances in other funds: Library, $2,298.71; auto street repair, $884.96; gasoline tax, $1,304.37, and hospital, $865.24. The finance chairman also told council that salaries of police, firemen and hospital employes had not been paid for Nov. 15.

After quoting these figures Gordon said he understood the cost of operating Berger hospital was considerable over last year and urged that the difference between receipts and expenditures be narrowed. He said operating costs for October were almost twice as much as receipts.

CITES CHARITY CASES

He cited a large number of charity cases. "There are some charity cases," the councilman said, "which must have hospital care but there are a number of others," he went on, "which could be cared for in the homes. It costs the hospital more than $5 per person before they even begin to work on a case," he said.

Safety Director L. T. Shaner, who has the hospital under his wing, informed council that $3,000 remains on the books in delinquent accounts and that no effort has been made to collect any of it. He asked Solicitor Carl Leist if he wanted help, to which Mr. Leist replied that an attempt to collect some of the money would be made as soon as money is appropriated to purchase stationery and stamps for him to send letters to the delinquents.

Mr. Shaner also told council that coal had been purchased for the institution "on time." He said that $400 had been appropriated at the beginning of the year for repairs to the heating plant. Only $5 of that amount has been used, Shaner stated, and asked if it were possible for the other $395 to be reappropriated to go into a fuel fund for the hospital. This was ordered although Councilman Gordon said he understood the heating plant needed more repair.

MONEY TO LIBRARY

A sum of $2,258 was transferred from the library fund to the library, $1,000 for new books, $1,000 for incidentals and $258 for salaries.

After the long discussion on finances Councilman Reid tossed a ray of hope into the meeting by declaring that from all appearances the legislature is going to take some action to alleviate conditions.

A move was also discussed to seek an advance for city officials who have not yet received their pay envelopes.

The Christmas vacation extends from December 21 to January 2.

New Republican Leaders Sought

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—Demand for new leadership in the Republican party in Ohio today suffered a setback with the refusal of the state central committee to seriously consider a resolution requesting the resignation of Walter F. Brown, Toledo, as national committeeman from Ohio.

Brown once was postmaster general. Fred Warner, Marion, former Republican state chairman, offered the removal resolution, but the committee tabled it by a vote of 26 to 2. Only Dr. H. J. Johnson, of Tontogany, Wood-co, voted with Warner against the motion to table.

MORGAN SUPPORTED

Warner was understood to have proposed that the committee name Daniel E. Morgan, Cleveland, committeeman in Brown's place. Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, nosed out Morgan for the party nomination for governor last August.

Clarence Brown's defeat by Martin L. Davey, Democrat, in the recent general election brought a charge from Warner that Mayor Harry L. Davis, of Cleveland, "lay down on the job" after the party nominee refused to promise Davis personal control of all Cuyahoga-co patronage.

Davey carried Cuyahoga-co by an overwhelming majority. Warner contended that Mayor Davis' alleged indifference contributed to Brown's defeat.

Confronted by a deficit of $7,000, the state central committee decided to make it up through assessments against prominent members of the Republican party.

A decision was reached to establish permanent headquarters here for the central committee and to maintain a permanent Republican state publicity bureau.

Clean Out Kidney Poisons

Wash Out Your 15 Miles Of Kidney Tubes

If kidneys don't pass 3 pints a day that contain nearly 4 pounds of waste matter, the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters become clogged with poisonous waste products and the danger of acid poisoning is greatly increased. Bladder passages are difficult . . . which often smart and burn like scalding water and cause discomfort.

This acid condition, brought about by poor kidney functions is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Most people watch their bowels which contain only 27 feet of intestines but neglect the kidneys which contain 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters. If these tubes or filters become clogged with poisons, it may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't run any risk. Make sure your kidneys empty 3 pints a day.

Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggists.
